CHARGE GRAFTING IN STATE GAME BOARD

URGE GAME BOARD BE OUSTED

Charging that the members of the State Fish and Game Commission have used the State's money for personal traveling expenses, that the output from the game farms has not been properly accounted for and that the management of the game reservation is open to severe criticism, the Commission on Efficiency and Economy today recommended the abolition of the present board and the substitution of a single commissioner to have entire charge of the work.

It is charged that fruit trees purchased by the commission at the State's expense have been found planted on the private property of Dr. George W. Field, chairman of the commission, and that feed purchased for the game reservation at Sharon has been fed to Dr. Field's fowl.

The report of the Efficiency and Economy Commission was submitted today to the Governor and Council and to the Legislature, following a long investigation into the affairs of the Fish and Game Commission.

"EXCESSIVE CHARGES."

With reference to the "excessive traveling expense" of the three commissioners, the report declares that in general the State funds have been expended for personal expenses, such as travel between home and office, carriages from station to home, hotel expenses and meals in Boston, excessive telephone charges, expenses for lectures for which no authority was granted to the commission and for trips outside the State for which per-

Lionel Harvard Composes Best College Hymn

Harvard of Harvard has won again.

Young Lionel de Jersey Harvard—the only Harvard at Harvard in 276 years and a descendant of a cousin of John Harvard—is the winner of the senior baccalaureate hymn competition at Harvard, it was announced today. Of all the hymns submitted in the contest, young Harvard's was picked as the best, and it will be sung on Class Day in the Harvard chapel and again on Baccalaureate Sunday.

The young English student has won other honors at Harvard. A year ago he won a first prize in the annual Boylston speaking contest in the Sanders Theatre. Three years ago he made a hit in his stage debut as a British lord in "The Foundlings." As Lord Bellamy in "Diary Fair" later he won praise as a real stage star.

Allow Noordam to Continue Voyage

By International News Service.

LONDON, April 27.—British authorities today permitted the liner Noordam to continue its voyage to Rotterdam, thus insuring the arrival at The Hague of the forty American delegates to the women's peace congress. The Noordam is the first vessel in several days allowed to go to Holland from English waters. It had been detained off Ramsgate.

EX-MAYOR IS CALLED PRATTLER

The war between Mayor Curley and his predecessor, ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, continued today, waxing more furious since the latest hot shot poured into the ex-Mayor's camp by Mayor Curley's secretary, who calls Fitzgerald a "pernicious, prattling parasite."

This, it is well to recall, is the identical alliteration—"pernicious, prattling parasite"—used by John A. Kelher to characterize Fitzgerald in the Storrow-Fitzgerald campaign of 1910.

District Attorney Pelletier and Postmaster Murray are closely watching developments. The District Attorney announced today that he was ready at any minute to investigate the bribery charges of the Mayor, if the Mayor will but tell him whom to investigate.

Postmaster Murray, in a statement to the effect that he was too busy to discuss the Mayoralty with Mayor Curley, ridiculed the statement of the Mayor that Fitzgerald had made the Postmaster his heir-at-law to the Mayor's chair.

SULLIVAN DEFENDS CURLEY.

Corporation Counsel Sullivan came to the Mayor's rescue with a statement in which he declared Mayor Curley's administration is the most efficient on record.

It was at the meeting of the Evacuation Day Committee of South Boston that the fight became most intense. The meeting was intended to discuss the success of the celebration over a banquet at the Quincy House. It developed into a red-hot attack on the ex-Mayor.

Mayor Curley, unable himself to be present, delegated one of his secretaries, John J. Murphy of South Boston, to represent him. He did. Mr. Murphy declared, among other things, that:

"The contrast between the determined present executive and the pernicious, prattling parasite who is responsible for 'recall talk' is so marked as to need no comment from me. Mr. Curley stands for truth and progress. You of South Boston know what his predecessor stood for—petty quibbling and poor politics.

"We find that after years of promises South Boston is receiving consideration from the Mayor's office. The day of the political leader is gone, the day of the political organizations with returns of political favors is past—a condition that will be with us for all time."

FITZ VISITS MURRAY.

The Evacuation Day was forgotten until Mr. Murphy intimated that the ex-Mayor had attempted to induce Former President Taft not to take part in a South Boston Evacuation Day parade because W. S. McNary, the ex-Mayor's political opponent, was chief marshal of the parade.

It was just after Postmaster Murray derided the "heir-at-law" idea that the ex-Mayor strolled into the Federal building and to the office of the postmaster on the second floor. The door was locked, but after some knocking the ex-Mayor was admitted.

Mr. Fitzgerald replied to Mayor Curley's charge that whatever recall talk there is is originating in the ex-Mayor's office, by suggesting that the Mayor quit accusing his predecessor and get down to the

ARRAIGN NEWTON RUNAWAY

Anna E. Smith, the Newton High School sophomore who ran away last Friday from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Smith of No. 113 Adams avenue, West Newton, was arraigned in the juvenile session of the Newton District court today on a forgery charge.

Tals charge was based, according to the police, upon the fact that the fourteen-year-old girl traced her father's signature on a withdrawal blank of the West Newton Savings Bank and thus drew out $125 of her parent's savings.

The girl was arraigned before Judge John C. Kennedy in private session. No plea was entered and the case was continued until tomorrow.

Anna was put in charge of the police matron, Mrs. Ella E. Mason, who will have care of her until tomorrow's continued hearing.

Anna was caught as she stepped off a train at the Grand Central Station in New York city Saturday on telegraphic description to the New York police. Over $100 was in her possession. She was brought back to Newton by Inspector O'Halloran yesterday afternoon and was put in charge of the matron.

Discover Bomb in Turkish War Office

PARIS, April 27.—A powerful clockwork bomb was found hidden yesterday in the ministry of war at Constantinople, according to a dispatch from Saloniki. It was timed to explode at an hour when the council would be in session. The meetings of this body are attended by Enver Pasha, Minister of War; Field Marshal von der Goltz, and General Liman von Sanders.

An investigation is said to have disclosed that the bomb was placed in the room by a sweeper, who had come to clean the chimney, and who then disappeared. Several minor officials connected with the ministry of war have been arrested on suspicion. The police believe the plot was directed against the Young Turks and the Germans.

Scandinavian Ships Held Under Orders

COMMANDANT RUSH GREETS GOVERNOR WALSH

WALSH INSPECTS THE NAVY YARD

Governor Walsh today paid an official visit to the Charlestown Navy Yard. He was accompanied by Adjutant-General Charles H. Cole, Captain James P. Parker of the Naval Militia and Major William J. Keville of the Eighth Regiment, members of the Governor's staff.

As the Governor's party entered the Navy Yard the official salute of seventeen guns was fired by the Yard Battery. As he passed through the entrance the colors were dipped. Immediately the party was driven to the commandant's office, where Commander W. R. Brush and his staff received the Governor.

As the Governor stepped from the auto a detachment from the marine guard who acted as escort in the yard, under command of Lieutenant William Harrison of the United States Marine Corps came to a "present" while the marine band played "Hail to the Chief."

After a brief conference in the commandant's office the party started on their tour of inspection. Each building was visited and the Governor proved an interested sightseer. He asked many questions and spoke to many of the machinists, laborers and other employes in the course of his tour.

The party boarded the battleship New Jersey, where they were received by Captain J. L. Jayne and his staff.

Captain Jayne acted as the Governor's escort and every part of the ship was visited. The Governor expressed his desire to see everything. This wish was granted. He climbed rope and wire ladders, went into gun turrets, visited the engine room and finished his visit by climbing up between two of the big twelve-inch guns.

All officers and crew mustered on deck in dress uniform for inspection. As he left the New Jersey another salute of seventeen guns from the ship's battery was fired and the ship's flag was dipped.

Auto Hospitals Now in Use by French

By International News Service.

PARIS, April 27.—Nine automobile surgeries (traveling hospitals) have just been added to the French medical organization. They are supplied with the most modern apparatus and carry a staff of surgeons, who are thus able to operate upon the dangerously wounded within a short distance of the battlefield. The cars move from point to point wherever the fighting is most severe.

EXPLOSION KILLS 7, INJURES 11

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 27.—Seven men were killed and eleven others injured when a dozen sticks of dynamite were prematurely discharged in the cut-off trench at the eastern end of the new Kensico dam at Valhalla today.

The explosion occurred 100 feet below the surface and few people in Valhalla knew that an accident had happened until the families of the workmen began flocking to the scene.

About twenty men were working in the hole and the sticks of dynamite had been set and wired, when suddenly, without warning, the explosion occurred. Two of those killed were blown twenty feet under a pile of rocks and mangled almost beyond recognition.

The injured were working in another part of the excavation and thus escaped the full force of the explosion. The trench was being excavated for the extension for the base of the new dam, which, when completed, will cost over $10,000,000.

ALLIES RETAKE 2 TOWNS

By HERBERT TEMPLE,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, April 27.—The village of Lizerne, head of the German wedge on the west bank of the Ypres Canal, has been evacuated by the German troops. This is admitted this afternoon in an official announcement from Berlin.

This admission by the German General staff, together with the recapture of the village of Het Sas, announced by the British War Office, convinces the leaders of the allies that the German drive for Calais has been stopped short.

The new German lines about Ypres are being held firmly, however, according to the report from Berlin, which says the attacks of the British troops upon the positions captured there have broken down. In these attacks, the British forces suffered heavy losses it is added. The railway at Poperinghe, Flanders, almost directly west of Ypres, was successfully bombarded by the German artillery, Berlin says.

CLAIM BRITISH ADVANCE.

British official news is to the effect that, far from breaking down, the British attacks are continuing successfully.

Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British expeditionary force, reported this afternoon as follows:

"Yesterday all the German attacks northeast of Ypres were repulsed. In the afternoon our troops took the offensive. They made progress near St. Julien and to the west of that place.

"The French co-operated on our left. Further north they retook Het Sas. In the course of yesterday's fighting our artillery took full advantage of several opportunities for inflicting severe casualties on the enemy. On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report.

"In addition to the destruction of Courtrai Junction, mentioned in the communique of last night, our airmen yesterday threw bombs on the stations and junctions at the following places:

"Turcoing, Roubaix, Ingelmunster, Staden, Langemarck, Thielt and Roulers."

FIGHT 4 DAYS FOR TOWN.

The allies and Germans have been fighting for Lizerne four days. The story of its recapture is told in the following statement by the Belgian legation:

GERMANS CHECKED NEAR YPRES

Lizerne, Head of the German Wedge West of Canal, Evacuated by Germans.

"Our infantry repelled three attacks made south of Dixmude by the Germans, who are again using asphyxiating gases. The Germans sustained heavy losses.

"Along our front the enemy's artillery has shown activity. Our artillery has replied with success and by a strong fire proved a useful help to the French, who made an attack on Lizerne. This town had fallen into the hands of the enemy Sunday, but it was wrested from them again Monday afternoon."

A dispatch from Paris this afternoon says that the German attacks have been definitely checked three miles from Ypres.

The troops operating directly against Ypres are those of Grand Duke Albrecht of Wuertemberg. They were able to force their way to within three miles of the town, but the nearer approaches are strongly held by the allies.

Officials of the War Office believe that it was the aim of the Germans to drive a wedge between the French and British armies by their fierce onslaught. This is declared to have utterly failed, the allies holding an unbroken line. This has been bent, but the Germans have been unable to smash through it.

10,000 GERMANS KILLED.

Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria and his troops are conducting the attacks on the English left with the twenty-third corps and the sixteenth division, about 18,000 men.

A dispatch to the Echo de Paris states that in the fighting directly about Ypres the Germans have lost 10,000 in killed alone. The French artillery has inflicted terrible losses upon the Wuerttemberg troops.

French chemists who have made an examination of the asphyxiating bombs used by the Germans state that they contain bromide, which the Germans obtain in large quantities from the Stassfurt potash beds. The vapor from this is violently toxic, irritating the breathing tube, causing hemorrhages and nausea, and burning the eyes.

Today's official communique, issued at Paris, says:

"There is nothing to add to the communique of last night except to report the consolidation of our positions and the continuation of our progress to the north of Ypres and on the heights of the Meuse."

REPORT GAIN IN ALSACE.

A supplementary report says:

"The summit of Hartmannsweiler Kopf (in Alsace), which had been taken from us yesterday morning, was retaken by our troops in the evening. We captured some prisoners."

Emperor William is reported to have reached the Flanders front yesterday afternoon. If this report is correct still more furious attacks may be expected from the soldiers inspired by the presence of their Emperor.

"Boesinghe has been completely destroyed," says a dispatch from Amsterdam. "The ruins are burning, but stubborn fighting continues amid the wreck."

The correspondent who sent this dispatch states that the Germans themselves declare that half it not been for the Canadian troops the allies would be in retreat along the entire Flanders front.

The Canadians opse' all the German calculations, the correspondent continues. The Kaiser's troops expected their coup to result in the quick fall of Ypres and the fall of all the important positions along the canal. Their expectations would have been fulfilled if the Canadians had not smashed into their advancing line, throwing seven entire regiments into confusion.

Telegraphing from Dunkirk, another correspondent says:

"The Belgian troops again proved their heroism on the canal, enrolling their names with those of the brave Canadians. They attacked the Germans repeatedly, retiring only when overwhelmed by force of numbers.

"A German lieutenant who was taken prisoner states that an engineer corps of his army was surprised by half a company of Belgians who drove the Germans into the canal, the correspondent says. Sixty of the Germans were drowned.

FIGHT NIGHT AND DAY.

"The fighting continues night and day. The conflict is waged at night by the light of burning towns and farmhouses. Ypres, fired by incendiary shells, is reported to be burning fiercely. British warships are still shelling the German batteries along the Belgian coast."

Rumors were current here today that a naval battle had been fought in the North Sea, but no confirmation had been received up to noon of a report from Amsterdam that a cannonade was heard off the island of Schiermonnikoog late yesterday.

The London Post correspondent says: "The fighting continues hotly all along this front. The Germans show extraordinary daring in bringing heavy artillery close to their front line, the guns used being mostly 15-inch Austrian howitzers on movable carriages.

"The Germans are using effectively armored trains carrying 4.7-inch guns. For the use of these armored trains the Germans have consolidated and strengthened the system of light railways uniting a number of small towns in the neighborhood of Ypres, to which they had added strategical branch lines."

Harold Ashton, special correspondent of the International News Service, cables: "North of Ypres there may be a slight bulge in the line, but the allies are holding it. Everything seems to have been worked out by the Germans in the great effort against the allies' line from Boesinghe to Steenstrate and east of Ypres.

"South and southwest, a huge stretch of inundated land has swallowed the decaying bodies of men and animals made the region poisonous and horrible, a way was cleared for a tremendous onrush of the invaders. This the Germans evidently knew exactly where and how the King of Belgium and British troops were joined by the wedge of French troops. Here, they considered what was a spot to strike with a huge concentration of men and guns.

"While terrible Hill No. 60 was still flaming and smoking they struck. The attack came within an ace of a successful issue then broke. The struggle is not yet over, but we are holding the line more powerful than it was held further south toward Armentieres and Lille in the anxious first week of November.

"The Germans have flung up reinforcements after reinforcements and battery upon battery into the wedge stalled terrain. So have the British. It has been a hot, feverish race for supremacy."

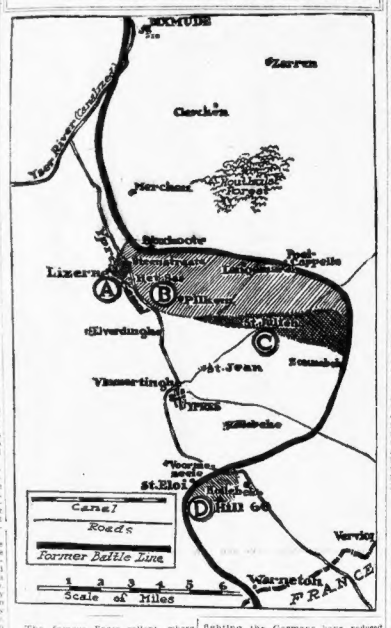
MAP OF YPRES SALIENT, SCENE OF GREAT BATTLE IN FLANDERS



The famous Ypres salient, where the German drive of last October and November toward Calais was finally defeated, is again the scene of desperate fighting. It is no exaggeration to say that in these few square miles of territory tens of thousands of men already have been slain.

The return of the German attack takes place further to the north than the points where their heavist attacks of last October fell. Then they attacked from Zantvoorde through Gheluvelt, to Zonnebeke.

The present German attack was apparently anticipated by the unexpected British assault on Hill No. 60, further south (D). Although only a small gain in territory, this success was most important because of the hill's domination of the surrounding territory.

The real German attack came last Thursday on the north side of the salient shown by a black line. This onslaught, preceded by the use of gas bombs, carried them in some places two miles into the allies' lines and across the Yser canal, as shown by the lightly shaded area (B). The next day they pushed further across the canal, taking Lizerne, but this has been retaken and the Germans pushed back out of the solid black area (A). Further gains, however, northeast of Ypres on Saturday, have brought the Germans St. Julien and the heavily shaded area (C). It may be noted that to five days' desperate fighting the Germans have reduced the area of the allies' salient by fully a third, and they are now in a position to cover the entire remainder by artillery fire, notwithstanding the allies' reported recovery today.

Reports are persistent, though unverified, that Field Marshal von Hindenburg now commands the German troops in Flanders, with 500,000 men at his disposal.

SULLIVAN COMES TO DEFENSE OF CURLEY'S ADMINISTRATION

business of his office, seeing that streets and parks are in respectable condition.

Mr. Fitzgerald said:

FITZGERALD'S STATEMENT.

"I wish Mayor Curley would leave me out of public discussions. I am attending my own business and I cannot imagine what good he thinks he accomplishes by blaming me for his troubles. His accusations about the conduct of men closely associated with him astonished me. If he had not made them himself I would not have believed them. My advice to him is to keep cool and go to work on things that he was elected to undertake.

"The streets of this city are in a disgraceful condition. Summer is near and Boston, because of the war, is bound to be a mecca for thousands of tourists who have never seen this wonderful city. The Mayor should prepare for the gaze of these people and for the comfort of the citizens, as the city's history and accomplishments deserve. I would again say to Mayor Curley, 'Give up those secret partnerships which involve the honor of the Mayor's office and if you do I will be your strongest supporter.'"

Corporation Counsel Sullivan said:

"I see no reason why I should at this time criticize the administration of Mayor Curley's predecessor. What I think about that administration is fairly well known, I think, to the public of Boston. It is not given my purpose to offer any facts and figures as showing by comparison the great er efficiency of the present administration, but I will say this:

"ADMINISTRATION HONEST."

"1. I believe that the administration of Mayor Curley is honest.

"2. In my judgment during the time since he was elected Mayor there has been a higher standard of efficiency created.

"3. There has been a real, honest and sincere attempt under this administration to eliminate the political poacher who, acting as agent for prominent officials, lived by levying tribute on persons who sought to do business with or to procure licenses or permits from the various city departments.

"4. This administration has been more concerned with doing really beneficial things for the people of the city of Boston than any administration in the recent past.

"The Mayor's offer of the position of corporation counsel to me came out of a clear sky. I accepted this offer in good faith, believing that because of my long and varied experience in municipal affairs, I would be able to render real service to the city of Boston and to his administration. Since accepting this appointment to the best of my ability I have attempted to do this, and I know my work has been entirely satisfactory to the Mayor.

POSTMASTER MURRAY AMUSED.

Postmaster William F. Murray said in reply to Mayor Curley:

"I have only glanced at the headlines. What amused me was that 'heir-at-law' allusion. His Honor appears somewhat vague and confused on that score. Now as I understand the term, an heir-at-law means a person who had an ancestor who died intestate, which means that there was no will.

"Pursuing the deductions, if there was no will what could have been bequeathed? All of which brings us to the question, Why Mayor Curley's heir-at-law pun?

"But to refer to sensible matters I might say I am too busy filling the job of postmaster of Boston, that I have no time for the discussion of what Mayor Curley may consider Mayoralty candidacies that may or may not develop in the future.

"This job of postmaster for the Boston district is a big one. It is a metropolitan job. The Boston postal district is not only the biggest in the country, but the biggest postal unit in the world. It embraces twenty-six cities. The area reaches from Stoneham on the north to the Weymouths on the south. There are perplexing problems.

COMPARISON OF JOBS.

"Mayor Curley has one city to look out for. Is the postmaster of Boston a bigger job? Well I decline to make comparisons. Judge for yourself. Now as a matter of fact the Mayoralty of Boston has its advantages and its limitations. It is a good job for those who want it.

"While in the Legislature the Senate never appealed to me, although it appears to the shining goal for most young politicians of Massachusetts. I looked upon it as too expensive and never craved for Senatorial honors. There are others who seem to feel that the Mayoralty of Boston is the most coveted goal. Well, every man has his ambitions.

"Just at present I have a pretty good job and I am trying to fill it with credit to myself and the city, and, mind you, there is a lot of hard work to be done if a man wishes to be a good and efficient postmaster of the greatest postal district in the world."

EAST WIND GIVES OLD SOL A JOLT

Old Sol and East Wind fought vigorously today for the Boston weather. Old Sol, veteran general of many seasons, was carrying all before him, when East Wind, with a sudden drive, captured nineteen degrees of temperature in a flash.

The battle raged something like this:

At 7 a. m. the temperature was 70 degrees. Climbing up the weather sky came Old Sol and his forces of heat. Under his impetuous charge the temperature rose eight degrees in an hour.

This made it 78 at 8 a. m. Yesterday it was 46 at the same hour. Old Sol bade fair to make today an April record-breaker for heat.

By 9 o'clock Old Sol had gained two more degrees. It was an even 90, and the neutral public began to wonder if Old Sol was going to commit any heat-wave atrocities.

It is 9:40 by the weather clock. Hark! who comes there? Ah, it is East Wind, that dauntless Boston strategist, renowned for dashing surprises.

East Wind came winging up from the harbor waters, fresh and cool and full of oceanic "pep." Look at him sail into Old Sol and capture temperature from him.

There goes one degree, there goes another—and another—catches of "en"—columns of heat fall right and left. It is 10 o'clock and the temperature is 61 degrees. Old Sol has lost 19 degrees of temperature to East Wind in twenty minutes.

General Stapylton Dead.

LONDON, April 27.—Lieutenant-General Granville George Chetwynd-Stapylton died today at the age of ninety-two.

Defeat "Blue Law" Sunday for Beverly

Beverly maids, who are pleased to accept ice cream, soda and candy "treats" from their Sunday swains, were pleased today when they learned that the city aldermen, by a vote of six to two, had overridden the veto of Mayor Herman A. MacDonald on thirty-one licenses for Sunday selling. The lively North Shore resort thus escapes a "blue law" Summer.

The aldermen received many applications from proprietors of small stores to keep open Sunday this Summer for the newspaper, cigar and soda trade and similar calls. The aldermen selected thirty-one applications for approval, these being distributed through the city.

At the board meeting Mayor MacDonald sent in a veto of all licenses, saying there had been too much Sunday selling for one thing and the only way to be fair was to refuse all licenses.

Aldermen Foster and Goldthwaite upheld the Mayor.

Miss Foss' Fiance Ill; Delay Wedding

The wedding of Helen Foss, daughter of ex-Governor and Mrs. Eugene N. Foss of Jamaica Plain, and William Whitman Hobbs, son of Franklin W. Hobbs of Brookline, which was set for May 8 in St. John's Episcopal Church, Jamaica Plain, has been postponed owing to the ill health of Mr. Hobbs. He has purchased a farm on Cape Cod and will live in the open.

Miss Foss has returned from a visit with her mother and brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hickman, at Atlantic City.

GREAT BATTLE ON AT DARDANELLES

ATHENS, April 27.—Bombardment of the Dardanelles forts is proceeding with favorable results for the allies, according to a dispatch from Mitylene this afternoon. Turkish forts on the Asiatic coast, near Smyrna, are also being bombarded.

By JOHN C. FOSTER.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, April 27.—Fierce fighting is in progress between Turkish troops and the allies' forces landed on Gallipoli Peninsula for the Dardanelles campaign, according to a dispatch received from Athens today.

It states that Enos, the city north of the Gulf of Saros, has been made the main base of the allies. The Turkish garrison there retired to the interior without firing a shot after the commander of the Anglo-French fleet had sent notice that the fleet would bombard the town. The inhabitants were given twenty-four hours to leave.

The bombardment opened Sunday morning, but ceased shortly as no reply was made by the Turks.

Air scouts in hydro-aeroplanes made a reconnaissance and reported that the Turks had withdrawn to Ipsala.

A dispatch from Salonica states that the Anglo-French forces landed on Gallipoli peninsula number 200,000 men, most of them veterans from the western theatre of war whose places in France have been taken by new troops.

The British War Office today refused to confirm this statement, but the government censor permitted its transmission.

Correspondents at Mitylene and Chios report that the allied fleet is pouring a rain of shells upon the Dardanelles forts.

Twenty-two of the most powerful warships in the British and French navies are said to be co-operating in the bombardment.

Under cover of this terrific fire mine sweepers entered the straits and are removing the mines placed there by the Turks in the month's interval between the last general attack and the present one.

RUSSIANS DAMAGE FORTS 15 MILES FROM CONSTANTINOPLE

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PETROGRAD, April 27.—Turkish forts only fifteen miles from Constantinople were bombarded by the Russian fleet Sunday. Several of the five forts shelled are believed to have been badly damaged.

The Ottoman battleship Torgut Reis, which was bought by Turkey from Germany in 1910, replied from the Bosphorus to the Russian fire but without effect. The Torgut Reis is a vessel of 9,900 tons.

Other warships in the Bosphorus were forced to retire because of the heavy bombardment. The following statement detailing the operations of the Russian Black Sea fleet at the Bosphorus was admitted at the admiralty today:

"At 8 a. m. Sunday the Black Sea fleet approached the Bosphorus. It opened fire at 9 a. m. against the forts and batteries with its heavy guns, successfully shelling two forts at Fener, namely, Karibdos and Gumburju, the Usunja fort and the two forts at Kavakamadjer.

THESE HEALTHY CHILDREN KEEP WELL BY TAKING FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

Their Father Says It Is Fine for Coughs and Colds

Endorsed by Doctors and Hospitals as Tonic and Body Builder

A Safe Medicine Because It Does Not Contain Alcohol or Dangerous Drugs

In a recent letter, Mr. J. J. Benton says in part: "I will send you the photograph of my three children. These children have been taking Father John's Medicine for years and find it very good for coughs and colds. We are never without it in the house, and my wife and children think it is fine." (Signed) J. J. Benton, P. O. Box 3, Lilley, Cambria County, Pa.

It is important for mothers to remember that Father John's Medicine is safe for the little ones to take as well as for older people, because it does not contain alcohol or dangerous drugs, but depends for its virtue upon pure, wholesome, nourishing food elements, which strengthen and build up and drive the impurities out of the system.—Advertisement.

ROOSEVELT ADMITS CONSULTING PLATT ON VICE-PRESIDENCY IN 1900

Colonel Fumes Under Aggressive Cross-Examination of Attorney Barnum.

By L. V. B. RUCKER,
Special Correspondent of International News Service.

SYRACUSE, April 27.—Badgered into fretfulness by the tenacious cross examination of W. L. Barnum, of counsel for William Barnes, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today admitted that he did not accept the Republican nomination for Vice-President of the United States in 1900 until he consulted with the late Senator Thomas C. Platt, "The boss."

He gave other testimony in the famous $50,000 libel suit to the effect that he considered Platt the boss while he was Governor of New York and consulted him about all appointments and such matters.

Mr. Barnum cross-questioned the colonel at length upon the contents of a letter read late yesterday. In that letter Mr. Roosevelt told Platt he did not care to be Vice-President, he wanted to run again for governor, but told Platt he would abide by his advice.

"Did you accept Mr. Platt's advice in reference to the Vice-Presidential nomination?" asked Mr. Barnum.

"I did not," said the colonel.

"Did you consult him upon the matter as a boss?"

"I did not."

"RELATIONS FRIENDLY."

"Your relations with Boss Platt were most friendly at that time?" queried Mr. Barnum.

"Most friendly," affirmed the Colonel.

"In your letter you said you had thoroughly enjoyed your term as Governor," said Barnum. "Did you enjoy your term?"

"Most thoroughly," said the Colonel.

"Did Mr. Platt advise you to run for Vice-President?" asked Barnum.

John M. Bowers, Roosevelt's chief counsel, objected and the question was stricken out.

Mr. Barnum then read a letter from Platt to Roosevelt referring to the New York Charter Commission and the Canal Investigation Commission.

"Did Mr. Platt suggest any names for the Charter Commission?" asked Barnum.

"I think not," said the Colonel slowly. "Yes, Mr. Platt suggested the name of Mr. Dewitt, but his name had previously been mentioned to me."

"Did you consult with Mr. Platt about the Canal Commission?"

"I did."

"What was said?"

"I cannot remember exactly."

"What was the Fox-McFarland report?" asked Barnum.

MEMORY AT FAULT.

"I do not remember."

"Was it a report of a canal investigation?"

"Yes, I believe it was," admitted the witness.

"Did you take any step to carry out the recommendation of that report?"

"I laid it before the Legislature," said the colonel.

"Move to strike out," said Barnum.

"Stricken out," said Justice Andrews.

The subject was dropped.

Mr. Barnum then read the following letter of February 9, 1900 from Platt to Roosevelt, referring to the Vice-Presidency.

"I have hardly had time to give the consideration it deserves to your letter of February 1, and the matters involved therein and am inclined to take time for mature deliberation. The Vice-Presidential question is a very important one and a great deal depends upon it.

"Mr. Platt's condition is considerably improved and it looks now as though I should be able to get to New York soon, at which time we can personally discuss the Vice-Presidential and other questions.

"Did you consult Mr. Platt about accepting the Republican nomination for Vice-President?" asked Barnum.

"I did," said the colonel.

"Did you value that advice?"

"I cannot answer that yes or no."

The next letter also dealt with the Vice-Presidency. It was from Roosevelt to Platt, on February 7.

"Your very kind note has just been received," says the letter. "I note that you expect to be in New York on Saturday. If so I shall not try to lunch with you, but if convenient I will call on you at the Fifth Avenue Hotel at 2 p. m. Will you wire me on receipt of this note?

"P. S.—I saw Kerens, and told him I had written to you that I would not take the vice-presidency, but that I wanted nothing said until I had a chance to talk matters over with you. The more I have thought it over the more I feel that I would a great deal rather be anything, say professor of history, than vice-president."

"Who was Kerens?" asked Mr. Barnum.

"Richard C. Kerens of St. Louis," said the Colonel.

"Was he a boss?"

"I do not know."

Barnum then read a letter of February 17 from Roosevelt to Platt, referring to the Barren Island legislation. It follows in part:

"You will doubtless remember that last year I endeavored in every way to get a proper Barren Island bill passed through both Houses of the Legislature. Unfortunately a bill that was conservative and right did not reach me for executive action. This year, however, we have two bills which are eminently conservative and proper. They are recommended by Mr. Dady and I think he has communicated with you."

"Tammany," however, under the leadership of Senator Grady, is endeavoring to defeat these measures in the Senate, and I think they are bills which the organization could very properly take hold of and which ought to pass for the benefit of the people adjacent to Barren Island."

READS PLATT'S REPLY.

"Who is the Dady referred to?" asked Barnum.

"Michael Dady, a Democrat of Brooklyn."

Platt's reply to the Barren Island letter was in part as follows:

"I am in receipt of yours relating to the Barren Island question. You will remember that I was the one who was most importunate with you on the question of abating the nuisance and was very fearful that it would be delayed we might encounter just what we have now, united opposition on the part of the Democrats. The truth of it is that the men who are receiving benefits from the Barren Island business are high officers of Tammany Hall and will do everything in their power to continue their official existence.

"Perhaps it is no wonder that our friend Judge Cohen is in the predicament as he was before advocating retention. Dady had brought this to my attention some days ago and I had already communicated with Senator Ellsworth, who Dr. Doty informed me, had gone all wrong on the subject and was aiding Tammany Hall in their endeavors.

"I hope you will see Odell. I will telegraph him at once and urge him to line up the Republican forces unitedly in favor of Dr. Doty's bill. If you can find that any further endeavors are necessary on my part I shall be only too glad to carry out any advice or suggestion in this behalf.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat lean meat, drink lots of water, and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Advertisement.

How Is Your Weight?

While it is true that too much weight is not to be desired, yet the fact remains that many men and women are thin to the point of danger. This danger lies in their having no reserve force on hand to combat deadly diseases. A little extra flesh is needed by all to feel well and to look well, and this calls up the question of how best to increase the weight. Physicians and chemists by experiments have solved the problem of increasing the white and red corpuscles of the blood by the administration of 5 grain hypo-sulfate tablets, and this is always followed by an increase of weight. Obtain in sealed packages, and take for a period of several months, according to directions with package.—Advertisement.

ASTROLOGER SAYS THAT ROOSEVELT IS SOORED FOR LOSS

NEW YORK, April 27.—Theodore Roosevelt may as well surrender to the Astral Jinx, Professor Gustavus Meyer, the forecaster in Hoboken, has erected a horoscope on the Colonel. Says Professor Meyer:

"The year of 1915 will prove evil or unfortunate for Theodore Roosevelt and he will experience disappointment and have unexpected financial losses.

"He will also experience losses through illness or accident and his life will be in jeopardy.

"He will lose in the Barnes' trial. Strange to say, although he will lose, it will greatly enhance his prestige and make him more popular and better liked than ever."

He says the Colonel will be nominated for president by the Republicans.

BOSTON WOMAN IS LEADER AT HAGUE

Mrs. Fanny Fern Andrews, the Boston peace leader, is announced in cable advices from The Hague today to be leading the faction there which opposes the proposition that representatives of the Woman's Peace Congress intercede directly with the rulers of the warring nations for a cessation of hostilities.

The faction which calls for such intercession is led by Madame Rosika Schwimmer, president of the Hungarian Woman's Suffrage Association, Madame Schwimmer is said to have the support of most of the delegates from the Norse countries.

Allayed with Mrs. Andrews are the Dutch women members of the Peace Congress, who contend the proposed interference is not within the province of the present congress.

BRITISH LIQUOR PLAN OUTLINED

By International News Service.

LONDON, April 27.—Following the Cabinet's latest consideration of the drink problem, indications are that Lloyd George will submit the government's liquor proposals to the House of Commons tomorrow.

Although the Cabinet's plans are not yet finally adjusted, it can be authoritatively stated that the following are the main heads under which the government intends to take action:

1—Prohibition of the sale of immature spirits.

2—Encouragement of brewing lighter beers.

3—Special public house restrictions in munition areas.

4—Reduced hours of sale generally.

5—Compensation for interests affected.

The Cabinet arrived at this program after examining a great variety of temperance schemes. Total prohibition was ruled out at the start. Later the schemes for prohibition of spirits and expropriation of all the licensed houses in the kingdom. The Cabinet is greatly in doubt exactly how to frame restrictions for the areas in which munitions are manufactured.

Although the big scheme for state ownership finally was withdrawn, many Ministers are loath to part with it, and it is thought possible that a similar plan on a smaller scale will be devised for certain districts. It is understood today there will be a new regulation prohibiting the sale of immature spirits under a certain age and restricting the manufacture of the heavier types of beers.

A FINE TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

EASY TO MAKE AND COSTS LITTLE

If you have catarrh don't be misled or gulled into believing you can obtain a cure for your trouble by breathing a simple medicated air.

Catarrh is a constitutional disease, and inhalers, sprays and nose doubles merely temporize with the disease and seldom, if ever, bring any lasting benefit. To effect a cure use a remedy that will drive the disease out of your system. Don't employ a remedy that will drive the disease down into your lungs and bronchial tubes. Such methods often lead to consumption, and frequently produce catarrhal deafness and head noises.

If you have catarrh in any form go to your druggist and get one ounce of Parmint (Double Strength), take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose should begin to relieve the most miserable headache, dullness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, catarrhal discharges, head noises and other loathsome symptoms that always accompany this disgusting disease.

Loss of smell, defective hearing, dirt morning dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrh and which may be overcome by the use of this simple treatment. Every person who has catarrh should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better.

Police Seek Burbeck Facts Girl's Silence a Puzzle

Esther Burbeck, Peabody girl who refuses to incriminate anyone else in her recent disappearance.

Police Chief Grady of Peabody expects to make an arrest in the Esther Burbeck case as soon as the girl can be induced to talk. She is the seventeen-year-old sophomore in Peabody High School who ran away from home last Tuesday, leaving a suicide note, but who was found alive at Manchester, N. H., and brought back here.

Peabody church people talked today of appealing to the Federal authorities to probe the case under the provisions of the Mann or so-called "white slave" act.

Chief Grady said today:

"I think there is a guilty person in the case but, inasmuch as Esther Burbeck refuses so far to give any information, my hands are tied for the present. I hope, however, that some of Esther's family will be able to get enough information in a few days, to enable me to make an arrest. This I shall do without delay.

"I also believe that the $120 which Esther had when arrested was given to her by this person, although the latter stoutly denies it. Without doubt the girl is shielding someone. From the nervous action of the person I suspect, I conclude he is the principal actor in the affair.

"I regret that I cannot make an arrest just now. But Esther holds the key to the situation. If she can be made to talk, I can act."

One Peabody minister announced that he personally would make a complaint to the Federal authorities in event of the dropping of the case by the local authorities, on account of his conviction that there has been a violation of the Mann white slave act.

The members of the Episcopal church, which Esther Burbeck and Matt Buxton, the wire inspector, whose name was mentioned several times in the long history of her life left by the girl, attended, are also following developments in the strange case very closely.

The girl was brought home from Manchester in an automobile, which arrived in Peabody after dark. John G. Burbeck, her father; Ruth, her sister and Orville, her brother, were in the auto, which was driven by Louis F. Osborne, a chauffeur.

One by one the girl's relatives, and finally Chief Grady, tried their hand to make the girl tell where she had received the $120 she had when discovered, and who had assisted her in getting away from Manchester.

To every form of questioning, from the tearful queries of her sister to the stern demands of her father, she replied with the same story of sleeping in the woods four nights, and the story of earning the money by doing "domestic work" for a Lynn chauffeur, Richard Garland. No such person could be found in Lynn.

FAILS TO REMEMBER.

She was unable to point out the place where she had left the Lawrence car to sleep in the woods, although she had promised to show her parents the spot. Whenever the discrepancies in her story were brought to her attention she merely qualified her story by "not remembering."

Chief Grady, after his arrival in Peabody, recounted the details of the trip and the story recounted in by the girl, to the newspaper men at the station house. Matt Buxton, whom Miss Burbeck called "her dear friend," her "protector," her "guide" in her long confession, was present during the recital. He appeared as unconcerned as anyone, but expressed himself as greatly relieved that the girl had been found and brought home.

KILLS MAN WHO TRIED TO ROB HIM

LANESBURG, Ga., April 27.—Lured to a hotel by two strangers who claimed that they had met him in Bridgeport and other cities, Joseph E. Hill, seventy-eight years old and one of the wealthiest residents of Redding, early today killed an intruder in his room.

The old man was suspicious of the place and went to bed with an open knife under his pillow. He secured this when a burglar entered his room and during the battle that followed cut his antagonist's throat.

The dead man was one of the two who had lured him to the hotel. Hill had collected a large sum of money yesterday. The strangers suggested going to a hotel and on arriving there three rooms were assigned to them, the strangers occupying one on each side of their victim.

Hill had his money, but was fearful of a trap and lay awake until one of the men entered the room. The fatal fight then started. The other man escaped.

Find Swoboda Was Not Born in 'Frisco'

By International News Service.

PARIS, April 27.—French authorities have been notified by the San Francisco police that they have been unable to secure any evidence that Raymond Swoboda was born there, the Matin states today. The effort to secure basis for the prosecution of Swoboda as a German spy has extended even to the trenches in northern France. According to the Matin, officers sent to the front took a deposition from a French merchant stating that he employed Swoboda in Shanghai as a clerk, that Swoboda was arrested there and that he was tried and sentenced by the German consular court, being a German citizen.

Leonard Elected Captain

AMHERST, April 27.—At a meeting of the gymnastic team of Amherst College, Wallace Minot Leonard, Jr., '16, of Newton Highlands, Mass., was elected to captain the team for next year. Leonard has been a member of the team for three years, working on the horizontal bar, tumbling and club swinging. His specialty is club swinging and this past season he was Amherst's biggest point winner.

FAMOUS FOOT SPECIALIST IN THE CITY

Here's welcome news for weary strap hangers. A well known foot specialist and orthopedic surgeon, demonstrating and fitting the famous Dr. Scholl corrective foot appliances, is holding free examinations at the Regal Shoe Stores, 175 Tremont st., 109-113 Summer st., 2 Tremont st., all of this week. If you have a fallen arch, turning ankles, painful cramped toes, callouses, a corn or a bunion, let this specialist tell you how to get rid of it forever and for-ever. Consultation hours 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. It costs you nothing to talk to him. Why not have him examine your feet today? Absolutely no charge or obligation to buy.

The visit of this specialist constitutes the opening of the new Regal Foot Comfort Department being opened in all Regal Stores.

A New, Harmless Way to Banish Hairy Growths

Beauty Topics.

By following this suggestion any woman can, in the privacy of her own home, remove every trace of hair or fuzz from her face. With powdered delatone and water mix enough paste to cover the not wanted hairs; apply and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off and wash the skin. This method is unfailing, harmless and quick in results, but care should be employed to get the genuine delatone.—Advertisement.

Foss Comments on His Letter to Bird

34 COMPANIES OF CADETS AT DRILL

Thirty-four companies from the English High School participate today in the second of the annual prize drills of the school cadets of the Boston high schools in Mechanics Hall.

Eleven companies from Hyde Park, Charlestown, East Boston, West Roxbury, South Boston and Brighton high schools took part in the first drills. The first prize in the senior company drill was awarded to Company I, Brighton, Captain George A. Shepard, and the first prize in the junior company drill was captured by Company H, Hyde Park, Captain Louis F. Andrews.

The second and third senior companies were awarded to Company H, East Boston, Captain Alfred N. Brown, and Company L, West Roxbury, Captain Randolph W. Scott, respectively. Company 3, Brighton, Captain Lawrence T. Stevens, won the second junior company drill prize.

Medals in the individual prize squad for excellence in the manual of arms were presented to the following: Private H. Landsberg, West Roxbury; Sergeant J. E. Holleran, West Roxbury; Sergeant P. W. Cronell, West Roxbury; Sergeant Arthur McIntyre, Hyde Park; Sergeant James W. Stark, Brighton; Sergeant John McNamara, Charlestown; Sergeant John Tyrer, East Boston; Sergeant R. Sawyer, East Boston; Sergeant Roger W. Nutt, Brighton; Corporal W. G. De Grasse, Brighton.

Commerce Chamber Plans a New Home

A proposal for a new Chamber of Commerce building with clubhouse facilities in the heart of the city, and plans for a boost campaign to make the chamber more important were outlined at the American House.

Louis K. Liggett, chairman of the committee on organization, said that the Chamber of Commerce building was out of the way, and that eventually the home of the chamber would have to be brought nearer the center of the city.

He said that he favored and would work to secure a new headquarters, possibly between School street and Temple place and Tremont and Washington streets.

To Name School for Late Curtis Guild

At a special meeting of the School Committee it was decided to name the next large elementary school in Boston in honor of the late Curtis Guild. No such building is contemplated for the immediate future, but the board wished to go on record to honor the former Governor and ambassador.

Carranza Released M'Cleary 3 Days Ago

EL PASO, Tex., April 27.—A telegram to relatives here says that Philip E. REPORT CUNARD BALKS ON DOCK

The Cunard Steamship Company has decided to abrogate its agreement with the original Board of Port Directors for a guaranteed use of the drydock in Boston Harbor, when constructed, according to reports today. Opponents of the bill which comes in the Senate to authorize the construction of the drydock and to ratify the acts of the original board in connection therewith claim the measure will be defeated.

Former Lieutenant-Governor Barry, who has been quoted to the construction of the drydock, said today:

"To attempt to validate an old contractual agreement at this time, would be theft from the State treasury.

"The brigand-like methods resorted to by certain granite interests to get this contract through the council last year and to get the proposition rushed this year over the most contemptible lobbying . . . matters little to them what happens to the balance of the Commonwealth so long as they get theirs.

"Do you think that any corporation directed by even semi-sane men would think of ratifying a contract which meant to their concern the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars on present prices?"

Vincent Club Girls Rehearse Their Play

"S. S. Romantic" the operetta the Vincent Club is offering as the annual show in aid of the Vincent Memorial Hospital, was given its dress rehearsal with a large audience of ladies in attendance, and the show promises to be one of the best ever presented by this organization. The first public performance is at the Cort Theatre today.

Speaker Cox Scores Hasty Legislation

Channing H. Cox, Speaker of the House, scored hasty legislation, argued the need of keeping government out of business, and urged participation in politics at the monthly meeting of the Economy Club of Cambridge. George L. Dow, president, was toastmaster at the dinner, held at Young's Hotel. Speaker Cox saw danger in attempting to make the individual perfect through legislation.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring back color, thickness and lustre —Everybody is using it again.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhance its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL DOORWAY IN THE WORLD—MAIN ENTRANCE WAY TO PALACE OF VARIED INDUSTRIES.

SERIES "C" STARTS WITH A RUSH! CANDIDATES WORKING HARD!

In order to avoid the mistakes which many candidates in the AMERICAN'S California Expositions Contest made in sending in Series "A" coupons, the Contest Manager advises every candiate to read and reread the following advice, as well as the Contest Rules.
The important thing to remember NOW at the start of Series "C" is Double Vote Value Will Be Given for All Complete Consecutive Sets.

A "consecutive set" consists of 15 coupons, one for each day in the Series, for example, one coupon of Series "B" No. 1, one coupon of Series "B" No. 2, one coupon of Series "B" No. 3, etc., up to and including Series "B" No. 15.

For every complete "consecutive set" of 15 consecutive coupons, as described above, DOUBLE VOTE VALUE will be given.

The regular face value of these 15 coupons is 42 votes, but if sent in, in one complete set, as described, within one week after the close of Series "B," they will count DOUBLE.

Of course, it is clear that the more "consecutive sets" that a contestant can get, the greater his advantage, because of the DOUBLE VOTE VALUE for "consecutive sets."

After gathering your votes and when arranging them before submitting them to the Contest Editor, do your sorting in this way: place all coupons marked "B No. 1" in one pile, count them carefully, wrap them separately in one bundle and mark on the outside of the package.

My name is.....My address is.....

.....No. of coupons Series "B" No. 1 contained herein.

Do precisely the same with Series "B" No. 2 coupons, the same with Series "B" No. 3 coupons, the same with Series "B" No. 4 coupons, and so on with each number up to and including Series "B" No. 15 coupon. In other words, after you have done this, you will have 15 separate and distinct bundles of coupons, each carefully wrapped and each carefully labeled with your name and address and the number of coupons of that particular series number contained therein.

For each consecutive set contained in these bundles, you will receive DOUBLE their face value.

Face value ONLY will be given for coupons which do not make up consecutive sets.

The time limit for sending in Series "B" coupons is 5 o'clock sharp on Monday, May 3rd. All votes must be delivered to the Contest Headquarters at No. 5 Winthrop square, before that hour on that day or show mailing postmark at or before that time.

Many candidates were late in turning in their Series "A" coupons. There is no excuse or reason for this and it seems too bad that any candidate should lose a single vote credit because of neglecting to get the coupons in within the time set.

To correct some of the mistakes which have been made in sending in coupons, special attention is called to the following:

Have name and address and number of votes contained therein marked plainly on each bundle.

It is well to have an extra memorandum (of votes) inside each bundle.

Do not mix the votes of different series when sending in coupons.

At the end of each Series and during the week allowed to gather and send in votes, please arrange to turn them in in one lot, instead of (as some did in Series "A") sending in three or four bundles one day, two or three bundles the next day and one the third day, etc., during each of the seven days allowed. This is entirely unnecessary. Send together in one lot, if possible.

Send correspondence in separate letters. Do not enclose letters asking for information with vote bundles.

Have postage fully prepaid.

Address all bundles of votes to American Expositions Contest, P. O. Box 2047, Boston, Mass. Do NOT send votes addressed to Summer street.

CONTEST RULES—Read Carefully.

THE CONTEST—The Boston American's California Expositions Contest is a voting competition which is open to every man, woman and child (over 16 years of age) in New England, except employees of the American and their families and relatives. The contest begins Saturday, March 27, 1915, and ends Saturday, July 3, 1915.

THE PRIZES—Twenty-five De Luxe trips to the California Expositions and FIFTY DOLLARS in gold to each of the 25 trip winners will be awarded.

THE CANDIDATES—Every man, woman or child (over 16 years of age), who is a resident of New England, is eligible to compete, except employees of the American as noted above. Participation in any previous American contest does not debar anyone.

THE ENROLLMENT—Every candidate must be regularly enrolled from his or her permanent address on the enrollment blank printed in the Boston American Daily and Sunday or a copy thereof.

THE VOTES—Every day during the life of the contest, beginning Saturday, March 27, 1915, and ending Saturday, July 3, 1915, a coupon will appear in the Daily and Sunday American which will count for votes.

The Daily American coupon will count ONE vote and the Sunday American coupon will count TEN votes.

The contest will be divided into 7 periods, and the coupons, during each period, will be numbered in series as follows:

1st period—Series A No. 1 to A No. 15—appearing March 27 to April 10.
2d period—Series B No. 1 to B No. 15—appearing April 11 to April 25.
3d period—Series C No. 1 to C No. 15—appearing April 26 to May 10.
4th period—Series D No. 1 to D No. 15—appearing May 11 to May 25.
5th period—Series E No. 1 to E No. 15—appearing May 26 to June 9.
6th period—Series F No. 1 to F No. 15—appearing June 10 to June 24.
7th period—Series G No. 1 to G No. 9—appearing June 25 to July 3.

DOUBLE VOTE VALUE will be given for each consecutive SERIES turned in within one week after the appearance of the last coupon in each series. For example: A set of (C) coupons numbered "Series C No. 1" to "Series C No. 15," inclusive, will count as 66 votes, if received in one package as directed below, whereas 12 daily and 3 Sunday coupons not consecutively numbered will count as only 33 votes (their face value). But in any event all (C) coupons must be turned in within the set time limit. For example: ALL (C) coupons must be turned in not later than 5 P. M., May 17. ALL (C) coupons received after this date and time will be refused. A similar rule applies to the other four SERIES.

Votes sent in daily during each period will count only for their face value.

Votes cannot be transferred from one contestant to another after receipt of same by the American.

The vote value of coupons will remain unchanged throughout the entire contest.

HOW TO SEND VOTE COUPONS—At the end of the third contest period, collect all votes of that particular series, then put all your "Series C No. 1" coupons together, tie or fasten them in some manner and attach a slip of paper showing the number of "Series C No. 1" coupons contained in that package. Do the same with "Series C No. 2" coupons, do the same with "Series C No. 3, 4, 5, and so on up to and including "Series C No. 15," the last one of that series. Then wrap them all in one bundle and write on the outside of the bundle, your name and address and the number of consecutive sets sold to be contained therein.

WHERE TO SEND THE VOTES—Bring them to the Republican Contest Headquarters at No. 5 Winthrop square (just around the corner from the American's main office at Summer and Devonshire streets), or, if sent by mail, send to American Expositions Contest, P. O. Box 2047, Boston, Mass.

THE AWARDS—The 25 candidates who receive the largest number of votes will be awarded the 25 prizes. In the event of total votes for any contestants who will be being tied, similar prizes will be given to each winner so tied.

SPECIAL NOTICE—The American will not be responsible for the receipt of any packages unless sent by registered mail or express.

No prize can win more than one prize.

The American reserves the right to amend these rules and conditions from time to time, if it may seem necessary, in order to protect all contestants from any possible contingency which may arise. The Contest Editor will settle all disputed questions carefully and in good faith, all his decisions will be final and conclusive.

YALE SENIOR WEDS MOTHER OF PRINCE

NEW YORK, April 27. — Donald Shields Andrews, a senior in Yale University, was secretly married on Saturday to Mrs. Alma V. Hayne, of this city, according to information received today by young Andrews' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Andrews, of Cleveland. The ceremony, it is declared, took place at Mamaroneck and was performed by Justice of the Peace Mosher. Young Andrews had been watched by private detectives whom his parents had employed to aid them in frustrating the impending marriage, of which they had been forewarned.

Mrs. Hayne, a princess, declares she is the daughter of the late Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria and of the Baroness Vetsera. Her six-year-old son, she says, is an Austrian prince and one of the heirs to the throne.

Mrs. Hayne is divorced from George O. Hayne.

Rae Tanzer Counsel Are Again Indicted

NEW YORK, April 27.—A superseding indictment was returned by the Federal Grand Jury here against Maxwell and David Slade, lawyers, and Albert J. McCullough, detective, charging them with conspiracy to interfere with the administration of justice by influencing the testimony of witnesses at the hearing of Miss Rae Tanzer on the government's charge against her of using the mails to defraud. The charge against Miss Tanzer grew out of her $50,000 breach of promise suit against James W. Osborne, ex-assistant District Attorney. The Slades were attorneys for Miss Tanzer.

Cotton Convention Will Open Tomorrow

Manufacturers of cotton from all over the country will attend the annual two-day session of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers at the Copley-Plaza Hotel tomorrow and Thursday. Many important addresses on the industry will be delivered by men well known to the trade. President Albert Greene Duncan will deliver his annual address.

DON'T SQUEEZE BLACKHEADS—DISSOLVE THEM

Squeezing and pushing out blackheads make the pores large and cause irritation—then, too, after they have become hard you cannot get all of them out. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of powdered mercolized wax, a little on a bit, and smear—just over the blackheads nightly for a few seconds—wash off and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition. Anyone troubled with these unsightly blackheads should try this simple method.—Advertisement.

YALE MAN'S PRINCESS BRIDE

ANCIENTS READY FOR GREAT SHOW

Many prominent Boston business men, members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, will demonstrate their abilities (?) as clowns, curiosities, acrobats, etc., tomorrow evening when the greatest show on Earth, without a doubt—appears here for its first, last and only time in the Fanueil Hall armory.

The show, which will be a consolidated presentation of the Great Fee Tee Barnone's Hippodrome, Dingaling Brothers' Famous Circus, Paw Paw's Wonderful Menagerie and Kernel Knifing's Kolossal Kombination of Rare and Kurious Kuriosities, has been arranged by the Ancients as the organization's last "smoker" of the present season.

With its marvelous collection of "freaks," its grand and gorgeous entry of the "World's Greatest Equestrienne," and its three "Main Mogoots' Rings"—all covered with real sawdust right from the saw mill—the circus promises to be strictly "regular" in everything from pink lemonade to peanuts. There will be a fanged circus band, an all-star minstrel show, a "midway" and all the other accompaniments of the genuine thing. And in the attendant crowd there will be the ubiquitous bonco steerer, the over-officious sheriff and the everlasting country "rube."

One of the biggest features of the affair, of course, will be the side show. Here will be seen many of the rarest and likewise rawest—freaks in the whole civilized—and, incidentally, uncivilized—world. Among them will be Bosco, the Snake Eater; Chang, the Chinese Giant; the Wild Man from Sarawa; the Sword Swallower; the Strong Man from Joy Street; the Siamese Twins, the Living Skeleton and others equally wonderful to see.

Out in the "big tent" twenty-five artists—every artist a star and every star a scintillating orb—will furnish thrills by the yard with death-defying stunts of all description. There also will be seen the world's greatest aggregation of "performing wild animals" and the less dangerous but equally entertaining capers of a dozen trick "monkeys."

And there too will be staged, for the first time in this or any other country, a meeting between Buffalo Bill and T. R., an attraction that should alone be worth the price of admission.

ANDERSON HITS AT HAMPDEN PLAN

George W. Anderson, a former member of the public service commission and now counsel for the commission on the Boston & Maine reorganization bill, has sent a letter to Chairman Hobbs of the railroad committee in the Legislature against the Hampden section of the Boston & Maine bill as presented. He says: "However much others may differ as to the responsibility for the combination of fraud and foolishness which created this Hampden property, no sound-thinking and impartial person now believes that the property is, or ever will be, worth for transportation purposes but a small fraction of its cost.

"There never was a railroad transaction in this Commonwealth more obviously requiring the exercise of a wise discretionary control in the public interest before any consolidation or lease should be approved than the transaction between the Boston & Maine and the Hampden Railroad. This is the last conceivable case in which the functions of the commission should be limited to that of a mere anulling power.

"This new section is practically a mandate to the commission to approve a consolidation on the basis of $3,600,000 5 per cent. bonds and preferred stock.

"I think it fair—possibly a sound—argument may be made in favor of passing legislation which will authorize a fair compromise between the conflicting claims of Boston & Maine stockholders and the holders of Hampden securities."

Milford Selectmen Refuse Six Licenses

MILFORD, April 27.—The Selectmen have rejected the applications of the Milford House and Lincoln House, that have had liquor licenses in every license year since high license was in force, and also refused licenses to four others who have had licenses ten or more years. The extent of the changes and the firms turned down has created a sensation. No such sweeping change has been made since 1886.

Man Killed Under Auto.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., April 27.—Harvey Jones, a horse dealer of Hadlstan Spa, was instantly killed early today when his automobile turned turtle.

Children's Skin Troubles

Cadum ointment for skin troubles is perfectly safe to apply to the tender skin of infants suffering from letter, rashes, eczema, chafings, and similar troubles that afflict the little ones. Instant relief is felt as soon as Cadum ointment is applied. The itching is stopped at once, and so soothing and healing is the effect of this new compound that infants resume natural sleep immediately. Cadum is good for any skin trouble in adults as well as children. 10c and 25c.—Advertisement.

CALLED TO TAKE THE PART OF STAR

Miss Beatrice von Brunner of The London Gaiety Company, who has been attracting considerable attention in the role of Daisy de Molina of the Piccadilly Theatre, in "Tonight's the Night" at the Shubert Theatre, was called upon suddenly last Saturday afternoon to assume Emmy Wehlen's part of "June."

Fortunately she has given the role of "June" some attention, the past few weeks for she is to play that part when the London Gaiety Company comes back to America next season for its trip to San Francisco and the Coast cities. Miss Von Brunner is engaged to play a leading role in the new London Gaiety production, which will be put on in London in June of this year.

A HOME RECIPE
That Stops Dandruff

If you are troubled with excessive dandruff either dry or oily it is possible that the following recipe which can be easily prepared at home from simple materials will be of great benefit, as by its use thousands of people have driven dandruff from their scalps forever.

Mix together in an 8 oz. bottle, 4 oz. of a good quality of Bay Rum, 2 oz. of Lavoris or Compound and add 1/2 drachm Menthol Crystals. Shake well and allow to stand for an hour before using.

You can get all the above ingredients from any druggist. The best way to apply is night and morning, briskly rubbing into the scalp with finger tips or a medium stiff brush. The one 8 oz. bottle should be in most cases sufficient to clear the head of all dandruff and occasional use thereafter should effectively prevent its return. This treatment is also excellent for making the hair grow and to keep the hair from falling out and although not a stain or dye, will often restore natural color to gray, streaked or faded hair.

Here Is the THIRD Reason

WHY THE BOSTON AMERICAN LEADS IN CIRCULATION

Because It Prints the News FIRST

Not only is the Boston American supreme in news-gathering in city, State, nation and, through its various sources of supply, throughout the world, but its superior mechanical facilities enable the paper to distance all rivals in the speed with which papers are printed and distributed.

The circulation department of the Boston American operates its own delivery system, with a complete organization that includes automobiles, motor trucks, many horses and wagons and, in the distribution of the immense Sunday issue, the use of special railway trains.

As examples of the supremacy of the BOSTON AMERICAN in giving the news in advance of its rivals may be instanced the FIRST NEWS of the Sinking of the Titanic; also the FIRST NEWS of the following important events: the San Francisco Earthquake; Resignation of President Huerta of Mexico; Declaration of War by Austria against Servia; Declaration of War by Germany on Russia; England's Ultimatum to Germany; Fall of Namur; Fall of Przemysl; Election of Pope Benedict XV.; England's Declaration of Blockade Against Germany; Removal of the French Government to Bordeaux; Turning of the Von Kluck Army Away From Paris; Zeppelin Raid on Paris; Sinking of British Battleships Bulwark and Hawke; Death of Mrs. Wilson; Death of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, and a number of important local events.

Six Reasons Why the BOSTON AMERICAN Leads in Circulation

1—Scrupulous cleanliness—the BOSTON AMERICAN is strictly a HOME paper.

2—Best war correspondents—leads in war news and photographs.

3—Most enterprising news service from all over the globe.

4—Most brilliant and able staff of contributors and the greatest writers.

5—First in illustrations, first in cartoons and first in good humor.

6—Unswerving devotion to the interests of the people.

REV. DR. GREGORY CALLS 'BIRTH OF A NATION' ACCURATE HISTORY

The Rev. Dr. Thomas B. Gregory, eminent author and historian, today commended "The Birth of a Nation" as a valuable historical document that accurately depicts the memorable but distressing struggle attending the reconstruction period of the South.

The Rev. Mr. Gregory came over from New York to testify to the historical accuracy of the photo-play. He has seen the play. He lived through the reconstruction period of the South. His was the first direct testimony.

"I have seen the incidents," said the Rev. Mr. Gregory, "and I know them to be true. This photo-play does not distort history. It depicts far less than actually occurred, but what it does show is absolutely true."

His testimony to the accuracy of "The Birth of a Nation" was presented to the legislative committee on Judiciary, which is hearing the various "censorship" bills, which owe their inception to the present agitation. Various proponents of the bills have contended that the photo-play is a distortion of history and a "vile calumny" upon the white people. It was this evidence that the Rev. Mr. Gregory combatted.

"HISTORICALLY TRUE."

"Everything portrayed by 'The Birth of a Nation' is historically true," said Mr. Gregory. "Those great facts happened; I saw them and I know them to be true."

Mr. Gregory told the committee he lived in Carolina throughout the reconstruction period, being a Southerner by birth.

"The film does not portray the whole truth. That would be impossible. No man could commit to canvas the degradations and the unspeakable horrors of that ten years of living hell known as the reconstruction period," he declared.

"It is all true. No fact should be eliminated. No scene should be erased from this valuable educational and historical document known as 'The Birth of a Nation.' Its educational value will not be appreciated, perhaps, by the present generation.

"There is no North or South today. We should not view this presentation from the viewpoint of local, geographical selfishness, but from the standpoint of true Americanism."

Representative Kennard of Somerville inquired: "Mr. Gregory, would this have a tendency to stir up the scars again?"

"Absolutely not," was Mr. Gregory's quick reply, "Those things can never happen again.

"Against this valuable historical document," he continued, "we have a trivial and spasmodic agitation, which quite resembles our using Vesuvius with which to roast an egg. It is all much ado about nothing.

"SOUTH LOVES NEGRO."

"If any man says to you that the South does not love the negro, I say that man is a liar. This statement refuted the contention that the film is a forecast of a Southern propaganda to promote lynching.

In concluding, Mr. Gregory said that there should be too much rather than too little or any restricted liberty of the freedom of speech and entertainment. "Agitations of this nature," he said, "tend to the destruction of the great American principle of free thinking and free speech." He also dissipated the earlier charge that the Ku Klux Klan was a "band of murderers" by stating that the organization numbered 700,000 members, a number in excess of the aggregate numerical strength of the Army of Virginia. Mr. Gregory also impressed the committee that he holds no prejudice against the colored people, but has been a benefactor to them.

Eugene Walter, the playwright, representing the American Dramatists and Composers' Association, said that while curtailment of dramatic productions is often necessary, he did not believe in condemning a performance on the mere ground that it invited racial feeling. "The theatrical profession is not the most harmful, nor the most beneficial, profession in the world," he said, "and if this bill before you in enacting into law, it will be possible for a rival manager to incite agitation against some other play being staged at another theatre. The mere fact that some people have protested against a production should not be sufficient evidence to suppress it."

Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan, also heard in opposition, said that under the proposed bills, the productions could be stopped of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Merchant of Venice," "Androcles and the Lion" and other masterpieces of fiction.

When asked if he thought the objections of a large body of citizens was sufficient to stop a play, he answered:

"Certainly not. If a substantial body of citizens should demand my watch, it is no reason why they should have it, and a production like 'The Birth of a Nation' is property that should not be confiscated."

Sullivan said that if Mayor Curley said he would have stopped the play if he had sufficient authority, it was probably before the elimination of the 'Gus' scene.

Asks Return of Price of Marriage License

Donato Spadea, aged twenty-two, of Lawrence street, Brockton, appeared at the city clerk's office and demanded that he be given a dollar. In his hand he held a crumpled certificate which he received when the five days elapsed after he had filed an intention to wed Miss Esther C. Nowlette, aged twenty, of Spring street. Donato did not get the dollar, but he found an opportunity to tell the clerks that he didn't think much of marriage.

GLORIOL WAVOLENE

Produces Permanent Wave

Don't worry about your hair if it's straight and stringy looking. Just apply Gloriol Wavolene to the hair before curling, and a long lasting wave will be the result.

Ugly hair is a menace to women and particular attention should be given this very important feature in a woman's looks.

Gloriol Wavolene is a harmless, invisible liquid preparation, which does not dry or bleach the hair or injure it in any way. It may be obtained from any well-stocked drug store. It is easy to apply, and decidedly gratifying in its results.

Gloriol Wavolene is guaranteed to produce good results, and if you are not satisfied with it, your dealer will refund the purchase price. The same guarantee applies to Gloriol cold cream and vanishing cream, cleansing massage, shampoo and face powder.

Get the Gloriol Wavolene hair curler and see how wonderful it is.—Advertisement.

TIME IS FLYING IN TOUR CONTEST

My, how the time is flying in the AMERICAN'S California Tours Contest!

This wonderful competition is divided into seven periods and two of them, Period "A" and Period "B", have already gone.

It will be but a short time before twenty-five fortunate winners of the DE LUXE Tours to the Coast and back with all expenses paid by the Boston AMERICAN, will be listening to the conductor of the AMERICAN'S special Pullman train shout, "ALL ABOARD FOR CALIFORNIA."

In the meantime, it's merely a case of a little energy, a little effort and persistent courage and the gathering of the all-important coupons appearing in the daily and Sunday AMERICAN.

The details of this offer will be found on another page of this paper.

Begin Removal of Cove Street Bridge

The New Haven railroad has begun demolition of the Cove street bridge, under the agreement reached between the railroad and the city recently. Many of the bridge fixtures have already been removed. Now the bridge-wreckers are tearing down the main structure.

OUSTING OF GAME BOARD IS URGED

mission was not obtained from the Governor.

"Some of these abuses," the report says, "have been investigated by the State Auditor's office, and small amounts were refunded to the State by Commissioners George W. Field and William C. Adams."

The report states that the Fish and Game Commissioners expended the following amounts for "traveling expenses" during 1914: George W. Field, by Massachusetts, $459.71; outside the State, $594; a total of $1,453.71. George H. Graham, in Massachusetts, $1,247.27; outside the State, $72.72; a total of $1,320. William C. Adams, in Massachusetts, $462.87; outside the State, $75.85; a total of $538.10.

Chairman Field of the Fish and Game Commission lives in Sharon, and the establishment of the State game reservation at Sharon is described by the efficiency and economy report as follows:

"The conditions under which the Sharon reservation is maintained are open to severe criticism. The State's activities are so completely interwoven with the private business of Dr. Field, whose sister owns the land used for the State reservation, as to render satisfactory administration impossible. Stock and supplies purchased by the State and stock owned by Dr. Field are utilized in much the same manner as they would be if the Commonwealth and Dr. Field were partners in a single business undertaking.

"The superintendent of the reservation stated that on May 8, 1914, 2,500 young bear, apple and quince trees arrived at the farm, addressed to him as superintendent of the game farm. He paid the freight on these trees, although he could not understand what use could be made of them by the Fish and Game Commission. These trees are now planted on Dr. Field's farm.

"When this matter was taken up with the Fish and Game Commission, Mr. Adams and Mr. Graham stated they had no knowledge of the purchase of any fruit trees, although they remember sanctioning the purchase of hard-berry trees and shrubs. Dr. Field stated that the fruit trees were ordered from France at the same time that the other trees had been purchased. The fruit trees were shipped to Sharon, and the other trees were distributed to the other stations.

"The superintendent has found it impossible to keep the State's fowl separate from those owned by Dr. Field, and stated that many arrangements were held over using the fowl purchased by the State for Dr. Field's fowl. At the time of the visit of the agent of this commission all of the fowl belonging to the State were found in Dr. Field's yard intermingled with his flock.

"In the face of the existing conditions we recommend that the station at Sharon be discontinued and all of the State's property be transferred to the reservation at Norfolk."

The report also charges that the administration of the commission in all its departments has been extremely lax, that no comprehensive policy has been adopted, that the cost of farms and fish hatcheries has been excessive and that the output from the game farms has not been properly accounted for.

In one of its recommendations, the report says:

"No further money should be expended for the development or extension of game farms and fish hatcheries until the commission is reorganized."

'BILLY' SUNDAY BANGS GOLF BALL

PATERSON, N. J., April 27.—Billy Sunday has a new title. He is now a "golf" evangelist" as well as a baseball evangelist. Attired in the conventional golfing attire of brown knickerbockers, soft white silk shirt and black and white checked stockings, he went around the nine holes of the Arcola Country Club course in fifty, and the record for the course of eighteen holes is seventy-eight.

Sunday's arrival at the club was the signal for one of the liveliest caddy scraps ever staged at the course. Thirteen boys tussled with each other for the honor of serving the baseball player, and it was left until Manager David Bliss stepped in that the matter was settled.

He pulled the reddest of red-haired urchins out of the melee and, introducing him to Billy as Elmer Young, gave him one of the hardest jobs of his career. For Billy wasn't content with walking after the ball every time he made a drive, but chased after the sphere as though he was trying to make second on an infield hit.

After the game, Manager Shea said that Billy's time for covering the course was the best on record. Ackley won the first hole with a five, and it was not until the third hole that Billy was able to catch him.

The brassie was Sunday's favorite club throughout the entire game, because he said "you could shoot it so much further than with the other ones." His first shot from the tee lifted the ball high and it sailed through the air for 175 yards.

Dropping his club he ran for all he was worth after the ball and was seated on the green waiting when the rest of the party came up.

This style of play throughout the game lagged Billy out completely and as soon as he reached home he tumbled into bed and said he was going to stay there and enjoy a good rest.

"The game of golf," he said, "is likened to the game of life. You start off with a drive; some times it's a good one and some times it's a bad one. Standing on the teeing ground one looks over the green of life. Don't get discouraged in either game. If you keep at it you are bound to reach the greensward of success."

To Intern Raider at Norfolk Navy Yard

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 27.—The German auxiliary cruiser Kronprins Wilhelm probably will be taken to the Norfolk Navy Yard for internment tomorrow. The boat will have a berth near the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, the first German sea raider to seek refuge here. The announcement that the Kronprinz would not attempt to leave port again caused no surprise here. From the start it had been expected that her commander would accept internment.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

Plans for the reception and entertainment of delegates to the annual meeting of the American Automobile Show, to be held in this city May 15 to 17, are progressing in a rapid manner. President Lewis R. Spears of the Massachusetts State Automobile Association, chairman of the general committee, has selected his sub-committees, including men of note in the motor world and men who have a reputation of carrying to a successful conclusion anything that they undertake. It is anticipated that in addition to the business sessions the convention will have interesting features.

During the last four months the business of the Autocar Company has increased tremendously, and its plant at Ardmore, Pa., is working nights. Manager F. R. Page, Jr., has a new record for the Boston office, which branch is today in the front rank of the Autocar Company branches.

* * *

The Studebaker Corporation has anticipated more than 75 per cent. of its $100,000,000 business for September. In addition to taking up this large amount of its outstanding indebtedness, the company has been able to retire a substantial part of the $400,000 notes maturing in March, 1916. The company's business during the past few months has been far in excess of normal, its share of war orders alone amounting to nearly $20,000,000, it is reported.

WELCOMES LABOR FIGHT ON DRINK

In reply to the announcement that the Boston Central Labor Union was to attack the prohibition issue in Massachusetts, Superintendent Arthur J. Davis of the Anti-Saloon League declares that the league welcomes the contest.

"The league is satisfied," he said, "that a very large majority of the sober, patriotic Christian and home-defending labor men who are opposed to the liquor traffic will not be swayed by the minority employed by the liquor interests. Labor men, by forcing the issue squarely on their fellows, are doing the cause of prohibition a service that will add to the ultimate victory in the State and nation. There is no union made whiskey in the world and there are no union labels on whiskey bottles, and not more than one-fifth of the breweries in the United States are union breweries. And yet organized labor dares to take a stand in favor of the liquor business which is as little representative of organized industry."

Electric Drive for Battleship

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Electric propelling machinery for the new battleship California, the first battleship of any nation to be equipped with the electric drive, will be built by the General Electric Company of New York for $421,000. Award of the contract was announced by Secretary Daniels.

Hair Streaked With Gray

There is a Scientific Way to Restore Gray Hair in a Few Days

No one can tell that you used anything if you use Mary T. Goldman's Gray Hair Color Restorer, as it affects only the gray hairs and therefore does not change the original color. You can wash or curl the hair as often as you please—the color will be IN the hair, through and through, and cannot wash off. It is as different and superior to other preparations as electric light is to candle light. Test it yourself on a lock of hair and you will be delighted.

Trial Package, with special comb, sent for 10c in stamps. Be sure to tell the original color of your hair. The regular $1.00 size bottle can be bought at druggists and toilet goods counters, or I will fill your order direct.

Don't let the imitator confuse you—there is only one original Mary T. Goldman and look for the full name on the package or you may be disappointed by an imitation.

This Piano Sale Can't Continue Much Longer

ONE woman who bought a piano yesterday said, "I didn't know you carried pianos." We said, "We don't, madam," not regularly, but in this case an old, reliable New England maker offered to sell us his splendid pianos and player-pianos at actual cost rather than close his factories and throw his employes out of work. His suggestion was irresistible.

We Knew The excellence and high standard of his instruments and the splendid reputation they had.

We Knew That people would buy these excellent pianos if they could get them at the lowest price at which they had ever been sold and buy them on the most liberal terms ever made on instruments of this quality, under the broadest guarantee we knew how to write.

And so—

To keep his factory running and to make friends for this store

We arranged to take one hundred Pianos and fifty Player-Pianos

We cleaned out the picture department and put them there to sell, and such selling you've never seen.

But it can't last much longer—There were only 100 pianos and 50 player-pianos to begin with and when they're gone — we will be out of the piano business.

After the First Payment

Pay Only $1.25 A WEEK

You can buy a $350 Piano for only $229.75 each

and pay only $1.25 a week

You can buy a $550.00 Player-Piano for $397.50 each and pay only $2.50 a week after delivery

We thought when the sale began it would last at least three weeks longer, but now we know that it can't possibly continue that long.

It is human nature to delay—but in this instance waiting is sure to bring disappointment—for this sale is a success—news of it has spread the length and breadth of New England—so don't wait if you want one of these splendid instruments, for, even though we are not regularly in the piano business, we will stand behind every piano or player-piano sold in this sale with the strongest guarantee we know how to write.

Read this guarantee. Where else can you buy a piano with such backing?

The Guarantee

The R. H. White Co. jointly with the makers guarantee these pianos against any defects in material and workmanship.

If any such defects appear they will be repaired free of charge or a new piano of like value given you without cost.

The Pianos In This Sale

Come from one of the old reliable New England factories.

These are not cheap pianos, made to sell cheap.

They are instruments that for years have been known for their excellent tone and beautiful workmanship.

It is part of our contract not to mention the name of the maker in our advertisements of these pianos at these prices.

It would ruin his regular business among dealers and agencies if we should do so, but

You'll recognize them when you come and you'll marvel all the more at the wonder of it all.

R. H. WHITE COMPANY.

Kindly mail me full details of your wonderful piano sale at once, with the understanding that it does not obligate me in any way.

Whoever You Are

Being the Transcript of a message given by Celestia, (known to many as "The Goddess") and the Maiden from Heaven.

WHOEVER you are, I am for you. Wherever you are, I will come to you. The tenement is no lowlier to me than the home of your most exalted citizen. The discredited, vice-ridden hovel I am not afraid to enter. The paralyzed, stilted residence of society I will go to if I am wanted.

Whoever you are, I believe in you. Hated, scorned, kicked, beaten outcast, I have faith in you. Weak women, no! you are not bad. Whoever spoke otherwise knew not the truth. Hard, money-crabbed miser, I can show you where the light is.

Whoever you are, call me and I shall be with you on the instant. I will enter softly by your side, in the factory—in the rushed office, in the thick atmosphered store. Wherever you are I shall have no difficulty in seeking you out. For I am come from my heavenly home to lift you up, to wipe away those tears of anguish and pain, to smooth and soothe that care-ridden body of yours.

Come whisper to me your secret sorrows and I will wipe them out. I am so sorry for you. I know your woes and have endured them too for you. Many times have I truly wept for you, as I watched you trudge along, as I watched you fall to troubled sleep.

Open the portals of your heart, and let me step in.

My voice is lifted for you, whoever you are.

French Models at the Fair

Republished by Special Arrangement With HARPER'S BAZAR, the Oldest and Greatest Woman's Magazine

DOES the clinging skirt portend a swing of the pendulum away from the very full skirt? Certainly Premet has selected a narrow model for this tete de negre satin, with tunic of colwebby lace and corsage of embroidered beige-colored mousseline. A curtain of brown lace falls from the straw hat.

IT is regal, this evening gown of cloth designed by Premet. Over the fourreau of gold cloth, and a surprisingly clinging one, is dropped a tunic of gold tulle embroidered in blue and outlined in ermine. The corsage of gold tulle is embroidered in vari-colored stones and the sleeves are of blue tulle.

ZOE

A Story of a Woman's Love and a Web of Mystery

(Copyright, Associated Newspapers, Ltd. Serial rights in U. S. A. held by International News Service.)

(By CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN.)

"GOOD-BYE, my son!" laughed Brooke. "You look considerably better than when I came in upon you last night. Cheer up, old man!" He lowered his voice. "Nothing is worth thinking about. A woman like that will say anything. Put her out of your mind, and go and see your Eva."

"Shut up!" said Crawley, frowning. "I wish you would keep that to yourself, Brooke. I was mad last night. Forget all about it."

The two men had been alone for a few moments. Diana Brooke was dispatching a telegram to her dressmaker. She came up at this moment.

"So you can't persuade him to come with us, Godfrey?" she inquired archly.

"No, my dear, he's obdurate."

"Well, good-bye, then Mr. Crawley. I am so glad to have met you. Do come down again soon," she smiled bewitchingly.

"It is awfully good of you," the man murmured.

"Four o'clock," she whispered as they shook hands. He nodded. Brooke's back was turned for the moment.

At last Crawley escaped in a taxi, and told the cabman to drive him to 49A Grosvenor road, and sank back in the cab and literally gasped with relief. The strain had been fearful.

He had barely slept an hour all last night. The position had been intolerable. The very fact of being under Godfrey Brooke's roof was unbearable.

He had sat up until about half-past one talking to Brooke after Diana had left them together in the cozy smoking room of The Laurels, and had listened to Brooke's eulogies of his wife.

What a wonderful woman she was in Brooke's eyes, and what a pearl among women! How he loved her! How blindly he worshipped her! With what dog-like devotion he regarded her! And, withal, with what sublime trust! Every word and look of Brooke concerning her went to Crawley's heart like a knife-thrust in an old wound. He was a man of very highly strung imagination, and the midnight talk with his old friend had caused him almost physical pain as well as mental torture. Brooke was full of plans for the future, and in every plan Diana had her place and share.

"Ah, Crawley, old man," he said, emotion trembling in his voice, "it's a great thing to have a home. I'm a born wanderer—a gipsy. I don't suppose I shall ever settle down anywhere for long. But for all that, I like to feel I've got a little place somewhere on the face of this earth to come back to when I'm tired. That's used to long for in last Summer when I was out there in the Congo sweltering under that precious sun. Yes, Crawley, there's something in every man's heart that responds to the idea of home. 'My fireside,' with a good, pure woman waiting there for you. That's what's kept me going, and what will again, I haven't any doubt."

These words repeated themselves in Crawley's mind with a peculiar insistance.

HE TRIES TO THINK OF A WAY OUT

What a hopeless muddle it all was! All last night he had tried to find a way out of it—a way that was honorable and right. He blamed himself far more than he blamed the woman, for, after all, at the same time, he realized that he was not altogether fair to himself.

How could he possibly have known? Even now the thing seemed incredible and unreal, and there were moments when the sense of unreality was so forcible that he expected to awake and find himself sitting before his fire in his Grosvenor-road rooms.

It was about half-past one when he let himself into his flat, and Hutton, his man, met him in the hall, and gave him some letters and telegrams, which he tossed on to a table, and flung himself dejectedly into his armchair before the newly lighted fire.

It was a brilliant spring day—a day of clouds and sunlight, a day to rejoice a painter's heart. Crawley had much work to do; but there was to be no painting today. He had much more serious business in hand. He looked angrily at the clock—a beautiful seventeenth century grandfather's clock of exquisite manufacture. He had only recently bought it at Christie's.

"Nearly two and half hours before she will be here," he muttered to himself. "What, in the name of goodness, am I to do in the meantime?"

He rose impatiently and paced the room. He stopped every now and then at the window and looked out across the Thames to the great pottery work opposite. Then he went into his studio. He was restless, irritable, and altogether unset. He started absently picking up sketches from a bulky portfolio lying open on the lounge seat in a great bay window at the corner.

Nearly every other sketch was a study of Zoe—Zoe head and shoulders; Zoe full length; Zoe in hat and furs; Zoe in ball dress; Zoe's arms, back, bust—Zoe in every conceivable pose and posture. Zoe draped and undraped; Zoe as herself; Zoe as "Aphrodite," as "Circe"; Zoe as "Eve," as "Madonna"—beautiful little studies some of them; some finished, others but rough impressionist sketches, or careful studies of anatomical detail.

"If Brooke were to see those!" he groaned.

Crawley's eyes fell on a large canvas leaning against the wall.

It was his first study in oils of his famous "Circe." It was a most point in his mind whether this one were not indeed a superior picture of the one Leverediez and Maberley had bought of him for a thousand guineas down.

As he stared at it Brooke's words rang in his heart. That was Brooke's wife, the idol of his heart and life—the woman there, who had so recklessly surrounded by swine—the swine that had once been men.

It was a startling likeness. To Crawley the woman was the sorceress of Aeea, daughter of Sol and Perseis, who had made Ulysses forget his glories in her arms. He had meant to call his chef-d'oeuvre "Circe."

With consummate skill he had painted the woman, lying there in wild abandon. She was "Circe." But now—now he saw the awfulness of it. That lovely creature lying amidst her swine was Mrs. Godfrey Brooke.

He stared at the picture with a fresh and even more poignant horror.

If Brooke were to see that?

And his "Circe" was not all. There was that lovely thing on the easel in the corner—a small picture, that at first looked like a beautiful copy of Giorgione's "Sleeping Venus" or Crawley frantically tears up the picture of Zoe.

Dresden—the perfect expression of godlike beauty. The "Sleeping Venus" of Giorgione was not so beautiful as Crawley's "Sleeping Zoe."

There she was on his easel, lying there in sublime repose, her eyes closed in sleep that suggested happy dreams. There, too, the likeness was perfect, for Zoe had needed no idealizing. She was herself the type of perfect beauty.

If Brooke were to see that!

The thought maddened him into doing a purely hysterical thing—a thing which afterwards he regretted. Calmly and deliberately he went about his work of destruction. He started upon the drawings, the delicate studies of detail, the bold impressionist sketches, and tore up and burnt everything that had any connection with her. The artistic loss of that portfolio was incalculable, and he did not do his work without mental suffering and regret, for Zoe had represented to him an ideal. It was like rooting out of his being a great ideals.

All the time he kept saying to himself:

"Brooke must never know—never!"

Hutton disturbed him in the middle of his work to tell him that he had served lunch; but Crawley barely noticed the man, who stood and stared incredulously at his master systematically tearing and mutilating and destroying beautiful sketches and pictures. They represented nothing artistic to Hutton, whose ideas of beauty and art were about on the level of the ordinary man in the street, but they represented money to him. That horrified him. He murmured a faint protest.

Their Married Life

Helen Finds Delight in Unpacking the Gifts from Panama

Copyright, 1918, International News Service.

"THERE! the bell, Nora," said Helen as Nora stopped her work of helping Helen push the trunk into the light where she could see to unpack. "I guess it must be Louise. I hope it is," said Helen to her mother, eagerly.

A moment later Louise hustled into the room and Helen rushed across and threw her arms around her eagerly.

"Oh, Helen, are you so glad to see me, dear?"

"Am I? Well, I should say I am. You don't know how much I missed you."

"I was so sorry not to be here when you arrived. I had planned to meet you, but Bob insisted that I should go down to Atlantic City with mother for a little rest. And is this your mother, Helen?"

"Yes, this is mother, Louise; I want you to be great friends."

Helen's mother smiled sweetly at the radiant young face. "I know we shall be all of that," she said with conviction. "Helen has talked of you constantly."

"And I have been waiting so long to know you," said Louise. "If you are Helen's mother I am sure to like you."

Helen beamed on the two and Winifred woke up from her nap and rushed in to see Aunt Louise.

"I am unpacking, as you can see," said Helen, laughing at the untidy room. "The trunks didn't arrive until today and I do want to get it all over with as soon as possible."

"Wish until Winifred sees what Aunt Louise brought her from Atlantic City," said Louise, opening her handbag and pulling out a fat, puffy parcel. Winifred's eyes opened wide and she half put her hand out for it, her eyes on her mother's face for approval. Helen smiled and the next moment the fascinating parcel was being hastily unwrapped. It proved to be a quaint almond-eyed doll, dressed in an exceedingly fancy robe of blue satin, and with a hard black knob on the top of her head.

A HANDSOME GIFT BROUGHT FOR NORA

"I love Japanese dolls, don't you?" said Louise to Helen. "I wanted to buy one and Winifred is my only excuse."

"Now wait till I get my gifts out," said Helen, with pursed lips. "I have a few things to distribute myself."

Helen shook her head in denial and she dived down into a corner of the trunk and pulled out some packages.

"This is for Nora," she explained, "a collar and cuff set, really handsome, too. She can keep it for her graduation."

"Why, it's beautiful, Helen," said Nora, examining it closely. "You are generous."

"Well, Nora has been awfully good to me. I shall hate losing her, you do believe that. But aren't you excited about seeing your own gift?"

"Sure!" said Louise. "Well, I shall say so. I didn't know I was going to get one."

"You humbug, you did, too, and you let on," and Helen handed her a pool with a mock bow.

Inside, unwrapped it quickly and disclosed an exquisitely carved umbrella handle. It tapered to a fine point and was perfect in its workmanship, a rare and beautiful gift Louise gazed at it in wonder.

"Why, I never saw anything so lovely," she said, her cheeks pink with excitement, and she hugged Helen rapturously. "It's a beauty, Helen; only you were too extravagant."

Then handed a large package to her mother. "I hope you'll like it, dear," she said, wistfully. "I didn't know what to get for you."

The gift proved to be a crepe de chine kimona in pale lavender. It was beautifully embroidered in lavender chrysanthemums outlined in silver thread, and would look beautiful with Helen's mother's silver hair.

"And here are the presents for the men," said Helen, unwrapping two more parcels; "they are just the same, but in different colors."

They proved to be silk pajamas, in lavender for Helen's father and pale blue for Bob. Helen had chosen her gifts carefully and they were all in good taste. Nora was called in and presented with her gift, and she thanked Helen with tears in her eyes. Then came the process of hanging up things and putting away countless other objects.

Helen made endless voyages to carry in towels, hot water bottles and some hair rugs they had purchased in Jamaica. Then there were her clothes and Warren's suits and other things to be put away, as well as Winifred's dresses and underwear. Louise pushed up her sleeves and helped to work with a vim, and Helen's mother sorted things as they were handed to her from the trunk and put away those that did not need mending.

A NEARLY MENDING TIME IS LAUGHED OVER

"We have a nearly mending fest whenever mother comes to see us," said Helen, laughingly, pushing up her hair, which fell into her face as she worked, and then as the last thing was put away and Nora dragged the trunk out into the storeroom she sank into a chair, fanning herself with a newspaper that had been left on the floor.

"You're coming down to tea with me," said Louise, decidedly. "It will make you feel 10 per cent. better."

"It will take me an hour to get ready," protested Helen, "I shall have to take a bath."

"All right, but be quick about it, it's only half past three."

"You're a sight for sore eyes," said Helen, looking at the smart tailored suit Louise wore and the little shiny black hat with its aigrette. "I feel as if I could never feel smart again. Did Bob go to the ball game?"

"Yes, he met Warren and they both went. Bob said they might meet us for tea, so hurry up."

Helen rose with alacrity. She would put on her blue suit and the winged hat, and would go out and have a good time. "You don't mind, mother," she said as she paused at the door.

"Of course not," the older woman reassured her. "I'm not dreaming that after Winifred and I will take a walk in the park and have as good a time as you young people. Hurry, dear, and don't keep Louise waiting too long."

Worked Side by Side to Win

Another Wife Who Helped Her Husband Tells What She Understands by Success

By a Successful Wife

I EXPLAIN my success as a wife by my working side by side with my husband. My husband came from Warsaw twelve years ago, not knowing the English language. He secured a position in a large manufacturing plant.

After two years he got a chance as salesman in the store of the same manufacturers. It was at this time he met me, and we were married on a salary of $16 a week. I was a dressmaker and for two years we both worked. He learned English, which, with his German, helped him along.

By this time we had a chance to buy a small store. I, not knowing how to sell, made up my mind to try, and I encouraged my husband to buy this small business.

We worked side by side, going up the ladder year by year. We have been making an average of about $2,000 a year clear, and we have a good name among our creditors.

In five years of hard work we have climbed the ladder of success so far that my husband bought the same manufacturing plant that he worked in, leaving me in the store. We are now running the two stores. In one I employ three workmen, and in the other my husband employs fifteen workmen and a cashier.

I have taken all the responsibility of one store from my husband, making it easier for him.

We are well known now and sell our products all over the United States.

This Liquid Attacks Hair Under the Skin

To gain control of coarse, bristly growths which have been caused by the unwise use of pastes, rub-on preparations and other things which merely remove hair from the surface of the skin, you must use De Miracle, the original liquid hair remover. Ardeda Le Mode says: De Miracle is "the best method." Only publications of the highest character are quoted by us. Beware of so-called hair removers which are supposedly recommended through bogus quotations from so-called magazines which do not exist.—Advertisement.

Do You Know That—

The Japanese use starfish as a fertilizer, and it is said to give excellent results on rice. An analysis shows the fish to contain nearly 5 per cent. of nitrogen and a small quantity of phosphoric acid.

There are in the world about 5,000,000 lepers, 2,000,000 being Chinese. India has about 200,000 and the United States about 600.

The quantity of guano exported from Peru during the past twenty-seven years is reported to have been 1,134,818 tons.

The output of maple sugar in the province of Quebec, Canada, is about 14,300,000 pounds per annum.

The United States now owns exactly 5,000 islands, supporting a population of 10,000,000.

KEEP A JAR OF MUSTEROLE HANDY

It Quickly Loosens up Coughs and Colds in Throat or Chest

Just a little MUSTEROLE rubbed on your sore, tight chest before you go to bed will loosen up congestion and break up most severe colds and coughs.

MUSTEROLE is a clean white ointment made with oil of mustard. Simply rub it on. No plaster necessary. Better than mustard plaster and does not blister.

Thousands who use MUSTEROLE will tell what relief it gives from Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsilitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and Aches of the Back or Joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chilblains, Frosted Feet and Colds. It often prevents Pneumonia.

At your druggist's. In 2oc and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Be sure you get the genuine MUSTEROLE. Refuse imitations—get what you ask for. The Musterole company, Cleveland, Ohio.

MUSTEROLE

Hong-Kong, the financial centre of the Far East, contains a population of five hundred thousand, including the people of the new territory, the leased area extension. The European population does not exceed fourteen thousand. Its banks control to a great extent the trade of China and the Orient.

Canada's woodlands and forests exceed 360,000,000 acres in extent?

In Cochin China the inhabitants prefer rotten eggs to fresh ones.

CHILDREN LOVE CASCARETS 10c

Remove the winter's liver and bowel poison with candy cathartic.

Don't let your child stay sick, bilious, feverish, tongue coated.

Your child is bilious, constipated and sick. Its little tongue is coated, breath is bad and stomach sour. Get a 10-cent box of Cascarets and straighten the youngster right up. Children love this harmless candy cathartic and it cleanses the little liver and thirty feet of bowels without griping. Cascarets contain no calomel and can be depended upon to move the sour bile and poison right out of the bowels. Cascarets is best family cathartic.

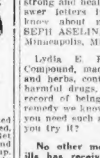
AFTER SUFFERING TWO LONG YEARS

Mrs. Aselin Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.



Minneapolis, Minn.—"After my little one was born I was sick with pains in my sides which the doctors said were caused by inflammation. I suffered a great deal every month and grew very thin. I was under the doctor's care for two long years without any benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try it we got a box of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the third bottle of the Compound I was able to do my housework, and today I am strong and healthy again. I will answer letters if anyone wishes to know about my case."—MRS. JOSEPH ASELIN, 608 Peoria Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy we know for woman's ills. If you need such a medicine why don't you try it?

No other medicine for women's ills has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. We know of no other medicine which has such a record of success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills.

Had Tuberculosis of Glands—Now Well

Glandular Tuberculosis has yielded to Erlman's Alterative when other means failed. Read what it did in this case:

257 Lauriston St., Philadelphia, Pa.

"Gentlemen—In March, 1909, my doctor pronounced my case 'Tuberculosis in the Glands,' and a number of operations in a hospital failed to benefit me. In the meantime a friend of mine advised Erlman's Alterative. The wounds in my neck were still open and in a terrible condition when I started to take it. After using two bottles I found I was improving, having gained weight, could eat and was able to sleep. I continued using it until I was well. On November 21, 1910, I started to work, and since that time have not lost one day's work through sickness. I highly recommend Erlman's Alterative to any one who is suffering from Tuberculosis." (Abbreviated.)

(Affidavit) JOSEPH B. WHITE.

Erlman's Alterative is a most efficacious tonic-alterative and restores the skin, lung, intestinal and glandular tissues to their normal activity and vitality. Obtainable in liquid or tablet form, at druggists. Accept no substitute. Send 2c. stamp for booklet. Regular size $1, regular size $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of testimonials.

Held as Driver of Unfit Horse

Patrick Monroe was arraigned before Judge Creed in Municipal Court, charged with driving a horse unfit for use. The complaint was made by an agent of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, who told the court the horse Monroe was driving Saturday was barely able to walk. Judge Creed placed Monroe on probation.

'Brazil Can Do Without Europe'

NEW YORK, April 27. Admiral Candido Da Garra of the Brazilian navy retired when he left here says:

"This war has taught us that we can do without European markets. We can buy nearly everything in the United States on practically the same terms."

Coming to Hollis Street.

Boston is to have a chance to see the first play based upon the present war disturbance in Europe. "Miles Fortune" has chosen as its perilous phase of the situation as developed on this side of the Atlantic, and the result is "The Highest," which will be given at the Hollis Street Theatre next week.

STOPS FALLING HAIR

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To a half pint of water add [illegible] Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one ounce of glycerine. Apply to the scalp and rub in with the fingers. A few applications should show that every particle of dandruff will disappear, while a single bottle should be sufficient to completely overcome any form of falling hair. This simple mixture can be made at home at very little cost. It will stop the hair coming out in handfuls, and will in a few weeks time grow a new growth of hair, even on heads that have been bald for years. It will also make the hair grow long and thick, and restore to gray hair its natural color. It is not sticky or greasy, and does not interfere with the arrangement of the hair in any way. Any druggist can put up the ingredients, or they can be obtained from any large wholesale drug house. Full directions are given with each package. Advertisement

This Six Has Every Advantage

MANY popular priced Sixes have but one or two good features.

At every other point they are not only commonplace, and ordinary, but way below par.

So that one good feature is picked—widely exploited, talked about and advertised. The theory of this method of selling being that if the public can be thoroughly saturated and incidentally blinded by the alleged superiority of this one point it will finally come to regard the whole car as something rare and unusual.

But, unfortunately, for this scheme—the public do their own thinking.

They want to know all about the whole car.

Consequently, when the public start to ask a variety of questions and make comparisons it is mighty embarrassing for him who is trying to sell the 'one-feature Six.'

The Overland Six has every advantage.

The en bloc 45 horsepower motor is an advantage.

The high tension magneto ignition is an advantage.

The bright French finish, long grain hand buffed leather upholstery is an advantage.

The 125-inch wheel base is an advantage.

The 35" x 4½" tires are an advantage.

The non-skid tires on the rear are an advantage.

It comfortably seats seven adults.

Yet—the price is only $1475!

If you want a Six that is good at every point get an Overland. You will get a far better car and save money as well.

Deliveries can be made immediately.

MANY FEATURES ON KEITH'S BILL

There's an added feature at Keith's Theatre this week—George Williams. Throw George! Her the toll tiger hand who "assists" at all the Georges is dragged on by Pat Rooney and Marion Bent and acts as such a capacity that Pat grabs it from us and pretends that he is giving the engaging part to the better man. George ought to get a medal for the progress.

Trixie Friganza heads an unusually long and rich bill for this week's big time opera. Indian extravaganza, take off and other circulation among specialties.

Lambert and Ball, Burns and Lorraine, Bessie Wynn and Company, Ben Welch, Leslie Carter and Mitchell and Mitchell at the Keith people are counted on but what the program is short is the interpretation of the interpreters. The noted actress appearing in the greatest ill usage of a dramatic career. The play should call for parts and the actress should have the best to do the skill in detail. The production is a sensation at the Hippodrome.

Bowdoin Suare Theatre.

Jacob Reed's Sons have made a new line of men's wear for fall and winter. Other features: Bessie Leaves, other good dancing and singing specialties. Boston Comic Opera Company will present "The Mikado" next week.

'HELLO BROADWAY' A CLEVER REVIEW

By FREDERICK JOHNS

"Hello Broadway," George M. Cohan's big review, which contains the guest and Willie Collier, and Regina Connell, Lew Fields, Belle Blanche, Harry Lief, Charles Irwin and a good people around a cast of characters. The Cohan is a fast and furious affair, and it is not until the last act that the audience is allowed to settle down to a comfortable state of mind.

I have seen every number of the show, in London and Paris, and in the U. S. A., and I have seen the whole thing from the first to the last. I have seen it in the first act, and I have seen it in the last act, and I have seen it in the first act, and I have seen it in the last act, and I have seen it in the first act, and I have seen it in the last act, and

BRAVES HOPE TO DEFEAT GIANTS

NEW YORK, April 27.—The world's champions Boston Braves arrived in town this morning. They are to engage in a little series with the highsalaried men under the celebrated Jawn J. McGraw. Although the Braves have not lived up to their reputation, it is expected that they will furnish plenty of excitement for the Giants when the two teams meet today.

Manager Stallings looks to McGraw's men to give him the hardest games of the season, and accordingly the Miracle Man has carefully saved his best pitchers for the Giants series. Avery, I see that Stallings has notified a Giant defeat he has grinned broadly, and despite the rough sailing of his own champions he is satisfied because the New Yorkers have fared even worse.

Both Bill James and Lefty Tyler appear to be in good trim, and it is understood that these two members of the Braves' Big Three will be seen in action against the McGraw clan some of the games.

Umpire Evers is expected to come down from his home in Troy and set on the Boston bench this afternoon. Another rumor about the Boston players holds is that Dode Paskert, the crack infielder, recently purchased by President Gaffney for the Braves, will get into one of the games against the Giants.

Gans Registers Knockout.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Battling Gans knocked out "Frenchy" Robson in the fourth round at the Vanderbilt A. C., in Brooklyn, tonight. West Benton outboxed Bob Mass ten rounds.

JEANETTE CHOICE OVER M'VEY FOR ATLAS BOUT TONIGHT

By JACK CONWAY.

THE stage is set for the twelve-round bout between Joe Jeanette and Sam McVey which will be held at the Atlas A. A. tonight. These dusky gladiators are ranked among the world's leading heavyweights and are expected to put up a hard, fast battle.

Jeanette rules a slight favorite in the betting. Joe's recent decisive victory over Sam Langford caused his ring stock to take a big jump and the wise men figure that he will prove a little bit too fast for McVey.

George Lawrence of Australia, who is here with McVey, is of the opinion that the rangy Californian will grab off the decision provided he fails to score with a knockout smash inside of the limit. As the rival boxers are seasoned campaigners, there is but little chance of either of them winning by a knockout.

M'VEY has been in Boston since Saturday and committed his training at Lake Cochituate, complaining. He showed to advantage in his workouts. He says he is in great condition and he knows the part. He recently returned to the United States from Cuba where he helped promote Jack Johnson for his battle with Jess Willard. Sam was over there with an attack of malaria while in Cuba and this made it necessary for him to call off his contest with Langford which was scheduled to be decided at the Arena on April 7. He has now recovered from the effects of his illness and informs us that he will show at his best tomorrow evening.

M'VEY regrets that he was unable to meet Langford here. He has been told of the fact that he was in good condition the night that he lost to Jeanette and he says that he would have won by a knockout if he had lost in the Hoboken negro's place. And as a free return is what he is entitled to, he insists that M'Vey says that if he is successful in his bout with Jeanette he will then be ready to meet with Langford at the Arena.

If M'Vey thinks that Jeanette will be desirous of without a bitter struggle, he will benefit a disagreeable surprise. Joe is a boxer of the old school and is a thorough master of the fine points of the glove game. He is a clever hitter, a good puncher and usually starts the ring in fine condition. Jeanette has not taken on weight during the past few years like Johnson and Langford. He is not sure good care of himself and seldom needs more than 10 rounds of work to get match weight for Jeanette to enter as he has a large frame and is 5 feet 10 inches tall. Joe is not quite as big as M'Vey, the latter weighing 200 pounds while he is 5 feet 10½ inches tall.

THE honorable referee will not find it difficult to referee Jeanette and M'Vey as both are experienced boxers and previous to having engaged in their great battles in the ring Joe was decisive in a draw at the end of thirty rounds. Jeanette is entered again in another 30-round bout with Sam at the Hoboken club and should find punch in the third meeting after forty-nine rounds of gruelling fighting. In this last encounter, McVey had all of the best of the going in the early frames. Jeanette, however, possessed more stamina than his opponent and gained the advantage after the twenty-fifth round. Jeanette was sent to the mat on numerous occasions and McVey asserts that Joe was favored by the referee on the count.

THERE will be a strong preliminary card this evening, Johnny Munier of Charlestown will meet "Kid" Cohan of Manchester, N. H., in the semi-final match of eight rounds. Bob Bailey of Everett will exchange punches with Tommy McFarland of the North End in a six-round whirl while Johnny Murphy, who hails from South Boston, will clash with Joe Carroll in another six-round contest.

Wallace in Action Tonight.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Broadway Sporting Club will stage three ten-round bouts tonight, as follows: Eddie Wallace, Brooklyn's Ghetto featherweight, vs. Bushey Graham; Dutch Brandt vs. Battling Lahn, Harry Pierce vs. Mel Coogan.

Red Sox Players in Minstrel Show

The Red Sox will figure largely in a minstrel show to be given by the Knights of Columbus at the Rockland Opera House next Friday evening. President Lannin is much interested in the show and has arranged that moving pictures of his team at Hot Springs and at other places will be displayed as a part of the show. It is said that the show will be something of a wonder in its way. They have been rehearsing it for a long time and many surprises are promised. Nearly all the Red Sox players as well as Mr Lannin himself, will attend the performance. Thomas W. Lannin, a cousin of the Red Sox president, will act as interlocutor.

Connie Mack Does Not Want Baker

Before leaving with his team for Washington, Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, declared himself as regards J. Frank Baker. "I don't want Baker," he said, "but if Baker reports to me I will be forced to take him and either play him at third or let him warm the bench. But I don't want him and only his contract with my club would make me take him if he reports. As to whether he will report or not I don't know, but I am inclined to think he will not do so—not at present, at any rate."

NEW STROKE FOR THE PENN CREW

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—Coach Vivian Nickalls of the Pennsylvania crew sprang another o this surprises when he placed Chickering at stroke of the varsity eight, passing over both Shoemaker and Macy, who have been fighting for that position all season. The coach has been trying out Chickering at stroke of the junior boat for the last week and has decided that he is, for the present at least, while Macy is in such poor physical condition, the best man for that position on the varsity.

Chickering is one of the lightest men in the varsity, as it now is, but is decidedly the most flash oarsman. The coach is doubtful whether Chickering will be able to stand a long race, but believes he is best man for the race against the Navy this Saturday, which will be over a mile and seven-eighths course. Shoemaker probably will stroke the junior eight on Saturday.

ENGLAND AND GERMANY
BROUGHT TO BOSTON

For centuries the English have been the great ale brewers of the world, and ever since lager came into existence the German empire has delighted the people of every part of the globe with its sparkling beverage.

Because they were made from pure materials the ale and lager of these countries have long been counted among their food products, and a part of the daily diet of the average English and German households.

Many scientific men claim the high average health of these nations is largely due to the perfect digestion promoted by the use of their good malt liquors.

FENWAY ALE and LAGER

THE BEER WITHOUT A SUBSTITUTE

Has everything that made England proud of her ale and Germany proud of the merited praise of her lager.

Fenway Extra, like the greatest products of England and Germany, is made of Choice Malt and Saazer Kreis Bohemian Hops. It is the only Boston Beer made of these materials, containing absolutely no substitute and bottled exclusively at the brewery.

Fenway is the kind of Beer that made Dr. Wiley, the great food expert say, "Beer is a veritable food product," and Dr. Chandler of Columbia College, "Beer is food and wholesome, it contains albumenoids and carbohydrates and mineral materials which our systems require; it aids both the appetite and the digestion."

Why drink the ordinary beers when you can have Fenway at the same price?

Inside Story of the Johnson-Willard Battle for the Heavyweight Title

By JACK CURLEY,

Who Arranged the Willard-Johnson Match for the Championship of the World.

(Copyright, 1915, by Star Company.)

Before the Willard-Johnson fight, I saw Willard with his hands up once! That was at Madison Square Garden with Carl Morris. The fight proved very unsatisfactory from a public view point.

The critics spared no words to roast Willard for his so-called clumsy efforts.

I sat in a rear seat near the entrance, and right there and then made up my mind that he was the man that could defeat Johnson, the negro champion.

Knowing that he was hooked up by Manager Tom Jones and the time was not ripe for a championship match, I said nothing.

Several months later Harry H. Frazee, with whom I was associated in the Jeffries-Gotch tour just before the signing of the Jeffries-Johnson articles, sent for me.

He phoned several times, which proved that he also was persistent in his efforts to find a man to defeat Johnson.

I called on Mr. Frazee at the Longacre Theatre and found him watching a rehearsal. Sitting in a rear seat, all alone in the big theatre, he told me briefly that the object of his sending for me was that he felt from the Moran-Johnson fight at Paris that the time had arrived for some one to take the title away from Johnson. He queried me with:

"Who is there to do that?"

Mentions Eligibles But Omits Willard.

He mentioned Gunboat Smith, Jim Coffey and Carl Morris. Without discussing the merits of any one of these three, I told him of my feeling regarding Willard when I watched him fight Carl Morris at Madison Square Garden. I said to Mr. Frazee:

"Willard is tall, rangy and has a slow aggressive style."

In fact, I mentioned to Mr. Frazee that Willard acted a little cowardly in the ring, by covering up, staying strictly on the defensive and taking no chances—and that that very cowardly style was the thing that would be most likely to be the undoing of Johnson.

I pointed out to Mr. Frazee a thing which he already knew—that James J. Jeffries was but a shell when Johnson defeated him at Reno, and that outside of the Jeffries victory, there was absolutely nothing in Johnson's record to make him stand out as a great fighter.

Shows Poorly in Bout with Gardner.

He defeated Tommy Burns, Jim Flynn, Stanley Ketchel—all little men, furiously aggressive, each trying to rush Johnson off his feet, and to use their own words: "Make the big coon quit."

A man with such style had no chance with Johnson for Jack would simply stand back, watch them tear in, and with his superior reach and slix uppercut them off their feet, with only one indisputable end—that of depriving them of all their strength.

I watched Georgs Gardner go through twenty rounds with Johnson for the most tiresome, long drawn out bout ever held on the Pacific coast.

At the end of twenty tiresome rounds Johnson received the decision, but neither winner nor loser received a cheer from the few tired onlookers that remained in the building.

I watched Marvin Hart, who, at his best, was only a second-rater, beat Johnson in twenty rounds.

He defeated Johnson simply by aggressiveness and was too big to be checked down by that uppercut which was the undoing of the smaller men. Alex Greggains justly gave Marvin Hart the decision in that match.

But throwing all these fights and all this dope aside, the one thing that stood uppermost in my mind—and which was not known by any expert who sat at his desk two thousand miles away when it happened was the Las Vegas fight with Jim Flynn.

I knew positively that Johnson had all he could do to train for that fight; in fact, was several times on the verge of nervous breakdown.

Marty Cutler, who helped train Johnson for the Las Vegas fight—in fact, all the men in the camp down there—were often called upon at all hours of the night to massage Johnson, rub him down, etc., so that he could rest in his bed.

Johnson Does Road Work at Midnight

I saw with my own eyes, the night before the Flynn fight at Las Vegas, where Johnson did road work at midnight, and I stumbled upon him quite by accident, which convinced me thoroughly that it was not a make-believe thing. But the fight itself was the best convincer.

When Captain Fernhoff, who was specially delegated by Governor McDonald to spoil the fight, stepped into the ring in the ninth round to stop the battle, Flynn was as fresh as when he entered the ring, while Johnson was barely able to hold up his hands.

No less a critic than the greatest authority on boxing that ever lived, the late W. W. Naughton, sat at the ringside and wrote and rewrote the story under his name that Flynn would have been a sure winner had not the over-officious police official interfered.

Sandy Griswold of Omaha and Otto Floto of Denver, both veterans of over twenty-five years' experience, and never missing a championship fight, fully agreed with Mr. Naughton's views.

The only critics that called the Las Vegas fight a joke were those that remained away from the fight. The experts who sat at the ringside, and went there at a big expense and discomfort, saw the real situation.

All those things together convinced me that Willard was the man to beat Johnson. Very often I had this remark thrown at me: "If Willard can last ten rounds." "If Willard can last fifteen rounds." "If Willard could last twenty rounds," etc., "he would have a chance after that."

Just why they figured that Willard could not last ten, fifteen or twenty rounds when Johnson in his entire career never stopped a man inside of that time, was more than I could understand. From the time the match was made until the men entered the ring nothing worried me so far as the result was concerned, only to get Johnson into the ring.

To get back to the actual match making. It was 4:30 p. m. one day last July when Mr. Frazee agreed that my judgment was worth his taking a chance with some money, and he decided with me that Willard should be given a chance.

Three hours later I was on the train, bound for Los Angeles to see Willard.

While between New York and Chicago I decided to interview Willard away from his home, if possible.

I wired to a friend of mine in Pasadena to call on Willard, furnish him with transportation and expense money, and have Willard meet me at Albuquerque, New Mexico, or Kansas City.

Next day I received a wire that Willard would meet me at Kansas City.

Willard Agrees to Take on Johnson.

Willard had no idea what business he was starting on when he left Los Angeles; he had only my wire to meet me to have a talk on a great opportunity. Willard's train arrived in Kansas City at 11 p. m.

Five minutes later we were seated on a baggage truck in the Kansas City Union Station, discussing the Johnson match.

In fact there was no discussion to it. I told him that he was the man to beat Johnson; that I felt sure I could dig up the opportunity and that he was ready to do his part.

I left for Joplin that night, leaving Willard in Kansas City, met him again at St. Louis two days later and we came to New York together.

We met in Mr. Frazee's office, agreed to continue Tom Jones as manager to look after Willard personally.

The next move was to get Jack Johnson. It took me two weeks to get in touch with Johnson, when I located in Mexico, Russia later and we came to New York together.

We met in Mr. Frazee's office, agreed to continue Tom Jones as manager to look after Willard personally.

The next move was to get Jack Johnson. It took me two weeks to get in touch with Johnson, when I located in Mexico, Russia later and we came to New York together.

We interchanged cables and agreed to meet in Paris. War conditions changed the meeting place to London.

I sailed from New York November 6, arrived in London November 14; saw Johnson the same night at his home in the St. Mary's mansions.

I asked Johnson his price to fight any man in the world.

He promptly replied, or rather confirmed, his cable request of $30,000, $1,000 expense money and fifty per cent. of the moving pictures.

I agreed at once and told him my backers were ready to post forfeits the next day.

It was a few minutes afterward that he asked whom I had in mind for his opponent, and when I mentioned Jess Willard's name, he almost laughed in my face.

I said: "Don't laugh at this, this fellow Willard is a tall, rangy fellow, he will fight you more than any man you ever fought, and he has a punch that has knocked out most of the good men in America and killed 'Bull' Young."

Johnson showed his gold teeth, as of old, and smilingly answered "That's all right—what round do you want me to lick him in?"

I reminded him of that same remark at Havana the night of the fight, and he admitted that I was right at the time.

In signing Johnson at London, it is well to mention right here that Billy Gibson and several other promoters cabled him frantically not to do business with me for Willard, but to take on Sam McVey instead, and strongly they proposed the battleground at Havana, Cuba.

Turns Down Bout with Sam Langford.

Joe Woodman, manager of Sam Langford, cabled a similar message while I was on my way over, which instead of having the desired effect, strengthened my case with Johnson. In Johnson's own words:

"Here is a fellow that has been hounding me for years; now asks me to do a favor at your expense."

Another similar message came from Richard Klegin, who cabled that he had investigated the offers and that Billy Gibson's offer was the only genuine one. However, that's a dead issue now.

The only thing that worried me all the way over was a cable that I received, just as I was about to board the ship for Europe, from Jack Johnson, informing me that he was very sorry that he could not wait for me, that he was leaving for South America and for me to come and see him there or write.

It was probably the only time during the entire transaction that I slightly deceived my backers.

I was afraid if I called on Mr. Frazee and showed him that wire he would feel that Johnson did not want to fight Willard and would call off my trip to Europe.

On the other hand, I felt that once in London, I could cable back that Johnson had already left for South America and that naturally a cable would come back telling him to follow him.

From the time I left the American line pier until we reached Sandy Hook and heard the familiar cry of "last chance for cable and man ashore," I cabled Johnson five times, begging him to wait for me, but I did not figure one chance in a hundred for him to comply with my request.

I arrived in London on a Sunday night. I had no idea that Johnson was in town, and was prepared to call at his late residence the next day to find out what boat he sailed on.

So I took a flying chance to call there late that night, and to my surprise found him waiting.

The conversation that night, pertaining to the match, I have already quoted above.

I met Johnson next day, drew up the articles, which he signed, and at the American Express Company paid him $1,000 expense money.

I returned to America the next day, and a few days later Johnson went to South America.

(In tomorrow's edition of the American Mr. Curley will tell how he selected a site to stage the Johnson-Willard championship battle.)

Only 'Inside' Story of Great Title Go in American

This is the first of a series of articles on the "Inside Story of the Johnson-Willard Battle for the Heavyweight Title," by Jack Curley, the man who promoted the fight. Mr. Curley tells how he first "got the hunch" for such a battle, how he selected Willard over all other "hopes" as the man who could win the title from the big black; how arrangements were made for the site, and how much money was paid each fighter. He tells of the many obstacles that he was forced to overcome before he could get the men into the ring, and then gives his view of the fight.

Mr. Curley also tells how the first man to meet Willard for the title will be selected and when the date will be selected.

This is undoubtedly the most interesting story of the championship ever printed. It is authentic and will be printed in Boston in the Boston American only.

"The Rabbit's" Column By Walter J. Maranville HORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

NEW YORK, April 27.—Through Mr. Gaffney, I have had word of Johnnie Evers, who is at his home in Troy, N. Y., with his leg in a plaster cast. Mr. Gaffney says that Dr. Herrin informs him that a bone was broken—not badly, but only split. It has been well set and will knit all right. The cast will be taken off with-in a week. Dr. Herrin says Evers will be able to play ball within six weeks. He could certainly play earlier, but Dr. Herrin and Johnnie's own physician consider it best not to take any chances. Mr. Gaffney agrees with the doctors, and adds that no alarm need be felt that Evers will be just as good as ever.

A telegram received from Evers says he thinks the Braves are having fine work and that it is a long way to the end of the season.

The Phillies put another over on us, didn't they?

We are here in New York for a series of four games, which began this afternoon. The Giants have been going loudly and for the first time in many years they are in last place the second week of the championship season.

There never hasn't been as rich a baseball team in years as the downfall of the Giants, nor, possibly, quite as good for the best interests of the game. For years, the various western clubs have been putting up annual complaints that the schedule of the New York team gave the Giants an immense advantage; that they had a lot of soft games early in the campaign, so that they were able to fatten their percentage with comfortable leads and a commanding margin much too soon. This time it all broke the other way. The story of the Giants up to date has been the funniest thing outside of a good burlesque show.

On opening day the Giants started with loud uproar and a thunderous rattle of bats, swamping Brooklyn 15 to 5, and making themselves look like the fiercest sluggers of the age. Next day, Marquard pitched a no-hit victory. Then they struck a long losing streak.

* * *

The continuous stinging given McGraw has been enough to drive that mighty leader to the dippy-hatch long before this time. His hair was gray already—now, as they say around New York, it is green, what's left of it—he has pulled most of it out and given it to the haw-haw fiends to make nests with.

* * *

In the opening game of the San Quentin prison baseball season in California, a big negro boy playing second base became incensed over what he considered poor judgement of the umpire.

"Ah'll knock yo' haid off when Ah git outa here," he yelled.

"You'll have to get some to catch men," grimly answered the umpire. "I beat you through the gate by three years and a half."

* * *

There are various reasons offered as to how McGraw failed to land Chalmers for the Giants. "Dut" has never lost confidence in his ability to "come back," and New York let him slip away. Chalmers went to Marlin Spring with the Giants' second squad on the way North. A few days ago McGraw went to Chalmers and remarked:

"George, I am going to do something good for you."

Being a New York boy and always anxious to play for the home town, Chalmers naturally thought that last bit day had arrived to sign a New York contract.

"Yes," continued McGraw, "I am going to sign you for $2,100 and turn you over to the Rochester club, but don't worry, I'll still have a string on you."

When Chalmers could get his breath he declared:

"Is that so? Well, since I am a free agent and can do business for myself I know some clubs that will do better than that and keep me in the majors, too."

So Chalmers talked business with Moran. The next day Chalmers held the Giants down to one run a game. He has since received a victory for the Phillies. What would McGraw give to get Chalmers now?

Harvard Football to Start Sept. 13

Football practise in preparation for the regular Harvard football schedule will officially open on Soldiers' Field on Monday, September 13. Head Coach Haughton and Captain Mahan will be on hand to receive the men. The backs and quarterbacks will likely spend a few days before regular work as the guests of Coach Haughton at Gould Island, Newport, R. I.

New York Mayor Sees Boston's Boxers Beaten

NEW YORK, April 27.—Mayor Mitchel was an interested ringside spectator at the special Interclty amateur bouts of the New York A. C.

The main bout was a special heavyweight three-round set-to between William Spengler, of New York, the metropolitan 175-pound champion, and James McDonald, heavyweight champion of New England. Spengler showed a better knowledge of the ring science and had the best of it all the way. The judges were unanimous in awarding him the decision.

By his victory Spengler earns a trip to the Pacific Coast at the expense of the New York A. C. He will leave immediately in order to be in time for the Panama-Pacific International bouts on May 5. McDonald weighed 185 pounds and Spengler 165½.

In the intercity bout at 135 pounds, M. Gleason, of the Hamilton Institute, defeated Jack Buckley, of Seton. Matty Herbert, the 108-pound metropolitan champion, defeated Ira Thomas, of Philadelphia, in the liveliest three rounds of the night. Gus Heigel of New York defeated Eli Harvey of Brooklyn after one round.

A Million Germs on a Fly's Head—

And You Eat Them All on One Piece of Bread and Butter

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

The picture on this page shows you how flies look to each other. If your sight were as good as the sight of a fly, or of a powerful microscope, every fly crawling across your tablecloth would look as he faced you exactly like the picture on this page.

If you saw a monster like this dragging its legs across the butter you would hardly eat that butter. You would say to yourself: "I wonder what is on those filthy legs, I wonder what vermin is hidden away in that hideous head?"

But, unfortunately, our eyes are not powerful and our imagination is even weaker than our eyes. In the fly we see merely a little black speck. We brush it away, then calmly eat the mass of germs that it has left behind.

Tens of thousands of children die because their parents haven't sufficient intelligence or energy to fight the house flies that bring disease.

Ninety per cent. of all the flies you see are bred in manure piles. Even our feeble imagination tells us what filth, what germs the fly must bring from the manure pile as it comes to the dinner table.

You see the hairs on this fly's head and legs—room for a thousand germs and more on each of those hairs.

You see the sticky mouth, constantly hunting for the filth in which germs abound.

You see this dangerous creature crawling over the face of your sleeping child, you see it in the sugar bowl, in the milk pitcher, everywhere.

HERE you see exactly what it looks like, and how well planned it is for the carrying of disease.

Try to keep this picture in your mind throughout the Summer, and when you do your duty killing flies, remember each time that it is not a harmless little creature that you are slaughtering, but an insect born in filth, seeking out filth, dragging it to your table, poisoning your children with disease—the deadliest enemy of the human race, infinitely more dangerous than all the poisonous serpents and wild animals that ever were.

Remember, above all, that killing a fly NOW is as useful as killing TEN THOUSAND FLIES later in the year. For the fly of today, if permitted, will be the mother or father of tens of thousands of flies before the season ends.

This picture the public owes to the intelligent management of the American Museum of Natural History in New York City.

There you may see this insect enemy, not merely magnified in the photograph, but presented in enormous size in wax.

It would be an excellent thing if all the children and grown-up people in the country could see the creature as it is, realize its danger, and help to eliminate it.

Fortunately there is comfort in the fact that the flies are born in manure piles. The thought is hideous, of course, but luckily THE AUTOMOBILE IS DRIVING OUT THE MANURE PILE, at least in cities.

The city authorities, if they will, can at once destroy the fly by proper regulations, disinfecting, spraying. But whether the city authorities do their duty or not, the automobile will settle the problem, in the big cities at least. Very soon the horse will go entirely. Such an animal wandering around the streets will be as rare as a cow or pig—we shall have gasoline in place of stable manure; and, automatically, thanks to science and progress, that which the intelligence of men would not accomplish will come about through mechanical inventive genius.

Meanwhile, without waiting for the automobile to do the work for you, kill flies wherever you see them; teach your children to kill them; do your duty.

What Do You Do for a Living?

Whatever You Do, You Will Do It Better and More Profitably After Seeing the California Exposition.

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

The best worker is the man with the best brain.

The brain that improves is the one that THINKS.

Go to San Francisco, study the great Panama Pacific Exposition. You will do more thinking in a month than you have done hitherto in a year, and you will be a better worker, no matter what your work.

DO YOU DIG DITCHES? It is worth your while, if you can possibly manage it, to go to that wonderful Exposition and study what it has to show you.

No matter how great the sacrifice to get there it will be worth it.

Do you build palaces, as architect or owner? The marvellous palaces of the San Francisco Exposition surpass all others in form, in beauty of color. The Exposition is an education for the architect and for the man with money to spend in building.

Every architect who has seen that wonderful, harmonious collection of buildings has seen that which he could not have imagined, that which will add infinitely to his own creative power and value.

ARE YOU A FARMER? You will learn more about farming by going to the San Francisco Exposition than you could learn by studying at home on the farm for ten years.

Go to California, to the Exposition. See the farms on the way going and coming. Go one way and come back the other. Use your eyes for thousands of miles.

Study the wonderful agricultural exhibits at the San Francisco Fair.

You will see everything there, from the giant machine that

You do not recognize him, perhaps, but he recognizes YOU very quickly, and your children as well. This is your dangerous enemy, magnified several times to make you see what he looks like. His name is Common House Fly; kill him. (See Editorial).

Curiosity of Motion Illustrated

How the Top of a Wheel Moves Twice as Fast as the Hub and Stops for an Instant at the Bottom

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

"R. C. H.," a railroad man in Chicago, and "Miss Dorothy J. O.," in California, both ask the same question, viz., whether during the revolution of a wheel any portion of the circumference is traveling faster or slower than any other portion, and, specially, whether the top travels faster than the bottom.

The speed, or "magnitude of velocity," of any point on the circumference of a wheel rolling on a straight base may be found by combining the velocity of translation, or forward motion, of the wheel as a whole with the rotational velocity of the point around the axle. This rotational velocity is the same, in magnitude, as the velocity of translation, but while the translation is always in one direction, the direction in which the rotating point moves is continually changing. When the point is at the top of the wheel the direction of translation and that of rotation coincide, while when it is at the bottom they are diametrically opposite.

Suppose that a train is traveling at the rate of thirty miles an hour. Then its wheels will rotate with a velocity of thirty miles an hour about their axles. But, at the same time, the axles are being carried forward with the train at thirty miles an hour. Consequently, a point on the circumference of a wheel which happens, at any moment, to be at the top will be moving forward thirty miles an hour by virtue of the general translation of the train, and another thirty miles an hour by virtue of its rotational motion about its axle, making a sum of sixty. Or, put it another way, while the point is moving thirty miles an hour in a forward direction with regard to the axle, the axle itself is moving thirty miles an hour in the same direction.

This coincidence of the two velocities lasts only for an infinitesimal instant, because, after passing the top, the point must curve downward, and then less and less of its axial, or rotational, motion will coincide with the forward motion of translation, until, when it touches the bottom, the two velocities, equal in magnitude, will be exactly opposed in direction. Their algebraic sum is then zero, and for an inappreciable instant the point will be at rest with reference to the ground.

To show how the speed of the rim of a wheel may be calculated at any point around the circumference take, in your diagram, the point which lies directly ahead of the centre of the wheel. Here the rotational velocity is, for the instant, directed straight downward, while the translatory velocity remains uniformly forward. They are at right angles in magnitude. Hence they may be regarded as representing two adjacent sides of a square, each side being equal to 30 units. Now, by the principle of the composition of motions, the resultant of the combination of the rotational and translatory velocities will be represented, in magnitude and direction, by the diagonal of the square.

To calculate the length of the diagonal we have only to add the squares of the two adjacent sides and extract the square root of the sum. The square of each side is 900, the sum of the squares is 1,800, the square root of 1,800 is 42.4265, which represents the speed, in miles per hour, of the point on the rim, when it is in the position shown. A similar method will show the speed and direction of the resultant motion at any place on the rim.

Suppose that it is the front wheel of a carriage with which we are dealing; then how fast will the tire of the wheel be passing the elbow of the driver? You may be tempted by an inspection of the diagram to reply, "Sixty miles an hour," but that would be wrong. The true answer is thirty miles an hour, because the driver shares the general motion of translation, and the rim of the wheel passes his elbow with only its velocity of rotation.

The motion in space, with reference to the ground, of a point on the circumference of a running wheel is a very curious subject of mathematical study. The combination of the two motions, which we have been considering, causes such a point to describe a very peculiar curve, called a cycloid. Starting with the point in contact with the ground, the cycloid rises, with gradually decreasing curvature, until the point is at the top of the wheel. Immediately it begins to curve down again until it once more touches the ground. Every point in the rim of the wheel is continually moving in a cycloidal curve, and the directions and velocities which we have calculated in the case supposed are those pertaining to a cycloid at the points designated.

Among its other peculiar properties the cycloid is the "curve of quickest descent." This means that if two points are situated one above the other, without being in a vertical line, a heavy body will descend from the upper to the lower point along an arc of an inverted cycloid quicker than along any other curve, and quicker even than along a straight line.

HEARSAY

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE.

THERE'S a tingling titillation in the silver Winter sea
When you break the ice and tumble headlong in it.
And the bubbling brine you shoulder, unrestrained and fancy free
As a walrus, for one long, delicious minute.
Once you've tasted of the pleasures of a cold mid-Winter dip,
You will nevermore thereafter be denied it;
For it gives to e'en the jaded a fresh, joyous, glorious zip—
So I frequently have heard—I never tried it.

There's a charm about the morning, say at half past 3 o'clock,
That possesses a prodigious fascination;
There is rapture in the dawn songs of the chickens and the stock
As they waken to matutinal citation.
There is nothing so delightful as to hop right out of bed,
When the earliest birds are calling to their brothers,
And to be among those present when the bired men are fed—
It is wonderful—I've often heard from others.

It is fine to swing a pick axe as a lusty section hand
In the rain and wind and other kinds of weather;
It gives one an iron muscle and a hard and horny hand
And a hide that turns the elements like leather.
Happiness in its quintessence comes with hard and honest toil,
And the person should be envied who has won it.
It means more to its possessor than the rich man's proudest spoil,
I am credibly informed—I've never done it

Iowa now imitates California's Orange Day by setting apart Onion Day. While not quite so romantic as the golden globes glowing on the green trees, the onion is right there when it comes to steak and——. And didn't Stevenson call it the "rose among roots," to say nothing of the "poetic soul of the capacious salad bowl."

A young Horace Greeley writes that he recently bought a watchdog. A friend tried to get into the house, and the dog nailed him by the wrist. Which causes our correspondent to remark that he must have bought a wrist-watch dog.

According to Professor Hillar, the celebrated authority on freaks, the greatest freak of all is the man who has nothing freakish about him.

Read an interesting story of a Jersey commuter whose garden was scratched up by neighbors' chickens. Commuter tied little cards to grains of corn with thread. Chicken would eat corn and swallow thread until the card brought up against her beak. Then she'd go home to her owner bearing a placard, "I am a thief," or "I have just been scratching Mr. Smith's garden," or "Why don't you keep me at home?" Should be some moral here about chickens and sins coming home to roost, but we don't know what it is.

Great Change Has Come Over Thinking World in Last Few Years and Girl Is Given Almost Equal Chance to Redeem Her Life After Error

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

THE old, old question is presented. Just what is a man's duty toward the girl who has failed to keep his ideal of her on its pedestal. Here is the situation—one of many, also: The man and the girl both yielded to the call of the senses. The girl failed to keep her self-respect and the man failed to keep his respect for her; the man has deserted her; he thinks she is no longer his ideal; that she does not represent the woman he wishes to become the mother of his children.

Just what should the man do under such circumstances is the question propounded. The girl still loves him. This is a large question and involves very many other questions. If motherhood stares this girl in the face, there is but one just thing for the man to do. He must protect his unborn child and give it the right to bear his name, even if he leaves the unloved mother at the church door.

Although he may believe that the woman is as much in fault as he for the deplorable condition in which she finds herself, if he has a spark of manhood in his heart he must realize that on her falls the greater penalty. He must realize how desperate is the situation in the eyes of the world of an unwedded mother. The child born under such circumstances is always branded.

Let him, at least, be man enough to give the unfortunate woman the protection which lies in the simple prefix of "Mrs." to her name; and let him give his child the small yet large benefit of knowing that the mother did wear this prefix at the time of its birth even though he never sees mother or child afterward.

The modern girl is seldom so innocent in mind and thought that she falls from her pedestal through ignorance. Our daily papers, our moving pictures shows, our police reports, our conversation in the home, all are of a nature to inform the growing young mind on the subject of sex relations. Boys know this, and they accordingly believe that the girl who falls is aware of what she is doing. But the mere knowledge of these relations does not protect a girl from danger. It is only when her mother or wise guardians have taken her into their confidence and made her understand the sacredness of demonstrations of affections and the holiness which is attached to wifehood and motherhood that the girl is absolutely protected from those temptations which come from within and from without.

Men have been taught since the beginning of history that all kinds of impurities of conduct can be indulged in by them without unfitting men to be worthy husbands and fathers. They have been taught at the same time that a woman must go spotless to her husband in order to be worthy by occupying the position of his wife and the mother of his children.

A great change has come over the thinking world on these subjects in the last score of years. Immoral and dissolute men are not as popular with women as they once were; and the girl who has made a misstep is given a better chance for reformation and reinstatement socially than ever before. Many men have married girls whose descent from the pedestal of virtue they have caused, and found them worthy wives and mothers ever afterward.

Were we to investigate the lives of all the people we know in our social circle we might find many surprising histories of this nature. There is no sex in sin or immorality. The sinning man is no better than the sinning woman. The woman who forgives a man his past does as noble an act as a man who forgives a woman her past. Slowly but surely the world is coming to an understanding of this truth.

What Do You Do for a Living?

cuts, binds and threshes and bags a swath of grain twenty feet wide to the ingenious little device that makes a hen exercise in order to get her food, or the latest machine for milking a cow.

The San Francisco Exposition is an education for farmers, as it is for all of this nation's citizens.

ARE YOU A MECHANIC, an engineer? You will find the best work that those of your class have done shown at San Francisco. Go there, see the machines finished and in the making.

HOUSEWIVES, PAPERHANGERS, PLUMBERS, MERCHANTS, ARTISTS, TAXI DRIVERS, ALL CAN GET AN EDUCATION IN THEIR OWN LINE OF WORK AND A NATIONAL EDUCATION BY GOING TO SAN FRANCISCO.

The Exposition in San Francisco is a great deal more than a marvellously beautiful celebration of the opening of the Panama Canal. It is an amazing demonstration of the power of the Western country. It is a tribute to the courage and the resources of California, and to the City of San Francisco especially, risen so wonderfully from the great disaster.

The Exposition is an education to every man, and it is a blessing to the entire nation, stimulating travel as it does, and persuading so many of the people TO BECOME ACQUAINTED WITH THEIR OWN LAND.

Nothing could have been more timely or more fortunate than the opening of this wonderful Fair in this year of miserv abroad, of concentration upon our own country and our own blessings.

We urge every reader most earnestly to plan and carry out a visit to the San Francisco Exposition if he can possibly manage it.

Remember, that you will never in your life have as good an opportunity for crossing this Continent, for seeing six thousand miles of your own country, going one way and coming the other. The railroads issue tickets at very low prices. You can stop where you choose without extra charge; you can go one way and come back the other without extra charge. The hotels of San Francisco, obedient to public sentiment, have not increased their rates. On the contrary, many hotels charge rates lower than have ever been charged.

You will find excellent accommodations at San Francisco now, for one-half of what you would pay for the same thing in other big cities.

Let this year 1915 be the year that made you acquainted with your own country.
